District split and investigation sought

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record
Efforts by Madison County officials to split the Metro-East Sanitary District along county lines continued Friday as State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) introduced a bill in the state House of Representatives which would divide the district, and Russell Robinson of Granite City, president of the sanitary district board, laid off most of the district's employees.

A temporary restraining order which had been issued last week by Associate Judge Philip Rarick in Madison County Circuit Court, which froze the funds of the sanitary district, was lifted after a hearing Friday morning, resulting in the massive layoffs by Robinson, who said he felt he had to lay the employees off because the district is out of money.

Full-time employees were invited to stay, with the understanding they will be paid when funds become available. Essential employees, including workers who operate the district's pump stations, were reported working this week, under the understanding they will be paid, eventually.

Robinson said that if essential employees decide to accept layoffs rather than wait for their pay, he will be forced to ask the U.S. Corps of Engineers or another agency to take over the pump operations, until funds are available to pay the sanitary district employees.

Wolf said there is a need to abolish the Metro-East district in its present form, because lack of an Illinois Supreme Court ruling on which county controls the board has resulted in a 3-3 tie in all major votes of the sanitary district board.

"I think both sides now realize that it cannot function properly, the way it is now constituted," Wolf said. Wolf's bill, if passed, would abolish the district, as it was created by the Metro-East Sanitary District Act of 1974. That act called for five trustees to be appointed to the board by Madison and St. Clair counties, with the county having the higher assessed valuation having three members and the other county having two members.

Until 1977, St. Clair County had the higher assessed valuation and three members, while Madison County had two.

When Madison County's assessed valuation surpassed St. Clair County's, Walter "Shang" Greathouse of Granite City was appointed by Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer to the board as this county's third member. Greathouse was to have replaced Robert Eastern of St. Clair County on the board, but Eastern obtained a court order from the St. Clair County Circuit Court prohibiting his removal from the board.

That court ruled that the use of assessed valuation to determine control of the district was unconstitutional. Population should be used to determine the control, Eastern's suit contended.

The issue was taken to the Illinois Supreme Court, which heard arguments on it in November, but has never handed down a decision. That left a 3-3 split on the board, with three members from each county. Efforts by Wolf and others to get a ruling from the state's high court have been unsuccessful.

Wolf said Madison County would be responsible for more of the sanitary district's debts than would St. Clair County, if his bill passes, but said he did if the sanitary district is using funds properly. Wolf and State Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) will meet tomorrow with Cronson to further discuss the possibility of a probe.

Seek new air rating

Southern Illinois construction and industrial leaders met Friday with area state legislators to request assistance in obtaining a reclassification of the Madison-Monroe-St. Clair counties area under federal pollution guidelines. The change of the area from a "Class II" to a "Class III" designation would allow needed growth, the leaders said. The proposed change in standards would allow incremental increases in some pollutants but would not allow air pollution to rise above maximum federal standards, the legislators were told.

The delegation, representing IMAGE, a group comprised of management, labor, and buyers of construction in 39 counties in Southern Illinois, told the state legislators that Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson has the authority to request the reclassification under federal environmental regulations.

Earlier attempts to reach the governor have resulted in a request from his office for an Illinois Environmental Protection Agency study of the effects of the change.

IMAGE contends that existing studies have already supplied much of the information required. The Illinois

Hester charged

A Granite City businessman and his sister have been charged with underreporting receipts from a popular local restaurant by more than a half-million dollars on sales tax returns. Charles Hester, 33, president of Charles Hester Enterprises, Inc., and Sandy Ousley, 31, his sister and bookkeeper, were charged Thursday with nine counts of filing false sales tax returns for the months of October 1977 through June 1978 for Charlie's Restaurant, 3120 Nameoki Road, Granite City, a restaurant owned by Charles Hester Enterprises.

Charges were filed against the corporation, Hester and Mrs. Ousley. The latter, of 1637 Minerva Ave., is charged with entering false information on returns, which were then allegedly signed by Hester.

The charges allege that the sales tax returns filed for the restaurant during the nine-month period failed to report receipts of $517,274.88.

Arraignment has been set for May 15 in Madison County Circuit Court.

Filing of false sales tax returns is a class B misdemeanor and carries a maximum punishment of $500 fine and six months in jail on each count.

The case was investigated by special agents of the Illinois Department of Revenue. Prosecution will be handled by the Madison County state's at-

Probation on homicide Optimists will mark 50 years

Madison County Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark had given Larry G. Webb, 40, Rural Route One, Granite City, two and one-half years of probation after Webb pleaded guilty to reckless homicide.

Webb allegedly was driving his car on Maryville Road near Route 203 (Nameoki Road) July 11, 1978, and struck and fatally injured 18-year-old Eric Michael Morgan of Rural Route

Two, Box 1015, who was riding a bicycle along Maryville Road.

Madison County sheriff's deputies' reports indicated Webb had taken a truck driver hostage in Webb's car when the fatal accident occurred.

Lawrence Cormican, 38, Summers, Ark., alleged Webb forced him at gunpoint into the auto after a disagreement over a dice game at a Mitchell tavern.

They drove on West Chain of Rocks Road to Maryville Road, 203, Cormican told deputies. During the ride, the hostage was struck with the gun on

Twirling champion

In the past few weeks, Jaclyn Greer of Granite City has won so many trophies it's hard to distinguish which awards were attained by the teenage baton twirling expert in what contest. Even more remarkable, according to her teacher, Sharold Yount, the youthful twirler discovered her talent for wielding the metal staff less than one year ago.

Jaclyn is the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack I. Greer of Rural Route One. She is a freshman at Granite City High School North.

Last week at Parkway High School in St. Louis County, the Granite City girl captured the St. Louis Sweepstakes Junior Beginners' high point trophy.

The award is presented to the contestant who places highest in the most events during the day-long competition. To attain the trophy, Jaclyn won first places in visitors' solo and basic strut. She also carried home three second place trophies and three third place awards in other events that day. In a contest in April at Streetsboro, Ohio, Jaclyn won the Miss Winter Model Pageant, the Miss Super Star Majorette Modeling award and the title of Miss Photogenic.

She also received first place for vocal singing talent and was first runnerup for Model of the Year.

Two weeks before the contest in Ohio, the local twirler won the first place award and the Miss Shamrock Pageant trophy at a contest in Pattonville, Mo.,

Percy bill would curb alien 'instant pensions'

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) and Senator Alan Cranston (D-Cal.) has introduced legislation to curb large-scale abuse of the welfare system by newly-arrived legal aliens.

They said the legislation could save American taxpayers tens of millions of dollars in payments made to legal aliens under the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program. A 1978 report of the U.S. General Accounting Office (GAO) estimated that the abuse in five states alone was over $72 million a year.

"Flagrant abuse of the welfare system by some aliens and their sponsors is an intolerable burden on American taxpayers," Sen. Percy said. "Such abuse is also an insult to honest aliens who observe the letter and the spirit of the law."

"Many aliens gain admittance to this country under the auspices of a sponsor who files an affidavit of support, promising to make sure the alien stays off public assistance for five years," Percy said.

"Yet the courts have determined that the affidavits are nothing more than 'moral obligations,' and are not legally binding. In many cases, often marked by collusion, the sponsor reneges on the promise to support the alien, and the alien then applies for the receives welfare."

Sen. Cranston said, "This legislation will put an effective end to the so-called 'instant pension' racket under which thousands of aliens and their sponsors have bilked taxpayers of millions of dollars.

"With Congress properly looking for ways to cut down government spending and working toward a balanced budget, it is more imperative than ever that the money the government does spend be spent wisely and for people who most need — and legitimately deserve — help."

The Percy-Cranston legislation would make a sponsor's affidavit to provide necessary support a legally enforceable contract.

If a sponsor reneges on the obligation and public assistance payments are made, the federal government, as well as the state governments, could recover from the sponsor those public assistance funds provided to the alien.

The legislation also would establish a three-year residency requirement before an alien could become eligible for SSI assistance. As a result of a loophole in the law, many aliens now apply for SSI payments within 30 days of arrival in the United States. In many cases, payments are made for conditions existing prior to their entry, such as blindness, disability or age, the two senators said.

Two hurt in tavern fight

James Leonard, 32, 1701 Sixth St., Madison, was treated and released at 1:45 p.m. Tuesday from St. Elizabeth Medical Center suffering with multiple abrasions to his face, forehead, chin and chest.

Leonard allegedly was in a fight at 11:30 p.m. Monday in Swanki Frankies tavern, 1112 State St.

Leonard told authorities he and his friend Donald

Rogers, 30, from Arkansas, were badly beaten after an argument in the tavern.

Rogers was admitted to the medical center early Tuesday morning for observation and treatment for multiple abrasions about his face and body.

A Madison police spokesman said a complete investigation is being made into the incident and the operations of the tavern.

Blair's students fill the air with colorful spheres

UP, UP AND AWAY. Excitement and helium balloons filled the air that day; 55 students at Blair School, Madison, sent messages to the world in the form of little notes tucked inside balloons, which they released last week.

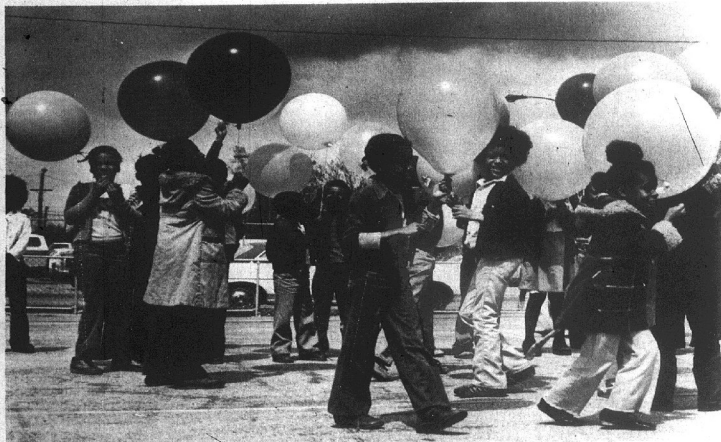

The event was the second annual Balloon Festival. Youngsters who participated had read 10 books or more under the Title One reading program. Those releasing balloons were first, second and third graders.

Teacher Clara Horton and aide Betty Coleman set up the balloon festival and the Parents Club of Blair School donated balloons.

Each balloon carried a message including the name of the child who released it, his teacher's name, the principal's name and the address and phone number of the school.

Principal Charles McCaskill said that last year they received answers from as far away as North Carolina.

More funds for fuel assistance

Michael R. Crivello, acting executive director, reports that the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission has received $200,000 in additional funds for the emergency energy assistance program, to help residents with their fuel bills from the 1978-79 heating season.

"Earlier in the winter, we received $209,720 for the same purpose, for which funds were exhausted by March 2," he said.

In order to qualify for assistance, applicants should have outstanding or unpaid bills from their energy suppliers and meet the income guidelines; $250 is the maximum payment to a fuel supplier.

For family size of one to six persons, the non-farm family income limits are $3,925, $5,200, $6,475, $7,750, $9,025 and $10,300.

The same figures for farm families are $3,363, $4,438, $5,513, $6,588, $7,663 and $8,738.

For family units with more than six members, $1,275 is added for non-farm families and $1,075 for farm families.

New program aides named

Lola Barylske, Madison, Phyllis McGinness, Granite City, Verna McClelland, Madison, and Alberta Buie, Venice, have been employed by the University of Illinois to work as Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program assistants in the Quad-City area.

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program is sponsored by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service and has branches in 20 Illinois counties, including one in Madison.

EFNEP is a nutrition program that is part of a nationwide effort to help families obtain knowledge and skills needed to improve their diets. The nutrition program uses the neighborhood approach.

Program assistants live in the neighborhood where they work and remain in close contact with the people with whom they are working.

Personal contacts are made in the homes, and the assistants discuss problems and skills with the homemakers, such as planning meals, buying food, preparing food, managing a food budget, and eating wisely for good health.

The four program assistants will work with 175 families in the local area.

animals to attend an APA meeting.

The group convenes on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at the Metro-East Sanitary District office, 1801 Madison Ave., with the next session scheduled tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Three vicious acts of cruelty to animals came to attention recently, Mrs. Bridges said.

A cat's tail was completely pulled from its body and another cat was cut up the middle of its body and had to be destroyed, she said.

In the third incident, a dog's tail was skinned with a knife and the tail had to be amputated, the APA officer advised.

"These things are actually being done in our area and they are being done by people, not other animals," Mrs. Bridges said, adding, "We hope the guilty party or parties will be caught and punished."

She also stated the APA has received several reports of registered dogs being stolen and cautioned pet owners in the Quad-Cities to keep their dogs confined to yards or indoors.

With the approach of the summer months, the APA is reminding pet owners to provide adequate shelter from excessive heat for those animals kept outdoors and to make sure a fresh supply of water is available at all times.

District split

not believe there was any other way to split the district. "It must be abolished under the same act under which it was constituted, so the county with the higher assessed valuation will have to assume the larger proportion of the debt, as well as of the assets," Wolf explained.

"Previous legislation in 1972 to split the district was declared unconstitutional because it would have had the effect of splitting all levee districts in the state along county lines. This legislation does not. It affects only one, because the Metro-East Sanitary district was constituted under a separate act," Wolf said.

"His bill was filed during a time when only emergency bills should be filed, so it will have to be reviewed by the House Rules Committee, to determine if an emergency exists," he said. "I think we have a pretty good chance of having it declared an emergency and heard by June 30," he predicted.

"If it does not receive emergency status, it still can be heard during the House veto session this fall," he added. "He said the bill will correct the basic problem, and that is that 'the board has no direct accountability to either county. Neither county feels the total responsibility for the district's actions.'"

"Wolf predicted his bill will have a good chance of passage. 'I think there will be less resistance by St. Clair County than in the past because both areas realize it cannot function properly the way it is formed,' he said."

"Sen. Sam Vadalahe will sponsor similar legislation in the state Senate, it was explained. "Even if the bills do not pass, we will not give up. The only thing you can do is keep on trying," Wolf concluded.

"Wolf also said that he has been talking with the state's auditor general, Robert Cronson, and has requested him to make an investigation into the operations of the levee district. Cronson is to meet with Wolf and Sen. Vadalahe (D-Edwardsville) Tuesday morning to determine if state money is involved in the levee district's operation. If state monies are involved, the auditor general's office will have the authority to conduct an investigation, Wolf explained.

"I feel sure state monies are involved. Even in the current Cahokia sewer line project which is using a federal grant, state funds are being expended, which are to be repaid from the grant, when it is released," Wolf added.

Meanwhile, Madison county members of the sanitary district board are continuing their efforts to freeze spending of levee district funds in St. Clair County.

During a meeting in the Granite City office of the sanitary district Friday afternoon, attended by only the Madison County members, it was decided on a 3-0 vote to layoff more than 70 employees, allowing only 29 to remain working, if they choose to work without pay, under the understanding they will be paid when funds become available.

Allowed to remain working were 13 pump operators and 15 full-time employees classified as 52-week employees and three office employees. "These are only the employees we consider vital to keep the pumps and basic maintenance operating," Robinson said.

The board members have gone without per diem pay of $40 for each meeting they attend, except for two meetings a month to discuss operations of the pollution department. Pollution operations are paid from sewer users' fees and do not involve tax money, so they have not been involved in the current funding problems of the sanitary district, it was explained. Also at the meeting it was announced that John Papa, attorney representing Granite City, Madison and Chouteau and Nameoki townships, had withdrawn his request Friday morning for a permanent restraining order freezing the district's tax funds.

During a hearing before Judge Rarick in Edwardsville, John Sprague, attorney for the sanitary district, presented the argument that a restraining order was not the proper remedy. Instead, Sprague contended, the Madison County state's attorney should introduce a "quo warranto" motion, challenging "by what authority this board sits," it was explained.

Sprague contended the Madison County suit for a restraining order could make the cities and townships liable for damages incurred, and Papa agreed to withdraw his lawsuit, which had been the basis of the temporary restraining order issued last week.

Byron has indicated he is investigating whether his office should file a quo warranto motion and is likely to do so.

All of the employees of the Metro-East Sanitary District who were laid off Friday by Russell Robinson of Granite City, president of the district board, returned to work this morning, without Robinson's permission.

Robinson said James Spanos, chief of operations, did not follow Robinson's orders to lay the employees off, because Spanos said only Executive Director Wendell Wheadon has the authority to layoff employees and Wheadon is out of town.

Robinson stated, "I do not know where Wheadon is, but I know he is not out of town on sanitary district business. I am really fed up with this. I am the board president and cannot even lay off personnel when we have no money."

Optimists

evening new members will be inducted and designated the "Arthur D. Rogeman class."

O. H. Sternberg, past president of Optimist International and former president of the GC Optimists, is chairman of the 50th anniversary celebration.

Optimist International President-elect James E. Creed, DVM, from Collins, Colo., will be the speaker.

Illinois District Optimist Governor Chester Graff, of Princeton, Ill., will be in attendance and inducting the new members.

Jim Seiz is the current president of the service club, which has 60 members.

A special effort is being made to have past presidents, their wives and widows in attendance.

A "memory board" will have pictures of former members and events to be identified by those attending and a prize will be given to the member who makes the most correct identifications.

The "Borestone Foursome" quartet has been reorganized and will perform for the first time at the gathering. Members of the original group were Optimists, now all deceased, who sang at most major Optimist events.

Mrs. Isabelle Smith, the original group's pianist, has written some new music for the quartet and will again accompany it on the piano.

"Granite City Optimist. This Is Your Life" will feature six short skits recalling humorous events during the club's 50 year history.

It all began during the month of February 1929.

Optimists from the North St. Louis, Downtown St. Louis, East St. Louis and Belleville Optimist clubs contacted John Pate, A. M. Wilson and Carl Lomax to talk about organizing an Optimist club in Granite City.

After a few weeks of meetings the Granite City Optimists were chartered in April 1929, with a charter party held at the Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis.

There were 26 charter members. Carl Lomax was the club's first president.

The purposes of Optimists are to develop optimism as a philosophy of life, encourage the development of youth, promote good government and respect for the law and advance the well being of man, his community and the world.

Tri-City Grocery stores leased to General Grocer

Tri-City Grocery Company, founded here by the late C. W. Pershall and presently directed by his son and grandson, Sam E. Pershall Sr. and Jr., has leased its 11 supermarkets to General Grocer Co. of St. Louis. Albert Muehlman, president of General Grocer, said today his company has acquired the leases and has purchased the store fixtures.

Tri-City Grocery stores will continue to operate, a spokesman said. There is one Missouri store in University City. The chain's ten Illinois stores are located in Madison, St. Clair and Jersey counties, including stores on Broadway in Venice and at the Bellemeade Village shopping Center in Granite City. General Grocer is based at 8514 Eager Road, St. Louis.

Probation

his nose and temple and slapped in the face, he alleged.

He also alleged the car went from one side of the road to the other, as though the driver was intoxicated.

When the bicyclist was struck, Cormican recalls saying to the driver, "You just hit somebody on a bicycle or something," but the driver continued on to Pontoon Beach, and to Route 111 where the driver fired two shots at a passing motorcyclist near Fairmount City, missing him, according to Cormican.

Collinsville police stopped the car on Route 40 near Route 157 and arrested Webb.

Deputies charged Webb with reckless homicide and indicated a Madison County grand jury would review the case.

His bond was set at $50,000, but July 10 Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr granted him a $10,000 recognizance bond and agreed to accept 10 percent cash for the remaining $40,000. Webb was released on $4,000 cash.

July 25, a car allegedly driven by Webb went over the curb on Johnson Road, went through a yard and then struck the parked auto of Sharon Clark, 3212 Johnson Road.

The vehicle then backed up and left the scene. Pontoon Beach officers stopped a car about 15 minutes later and arrested Webb, who appeared intoxicated and was combative and threatened police officers and their families, officers alleged.

Webb was convicted of aggravated assault after a December 1976 incident in which he allegedly entered the Coachman Store, 2151 Edwardsville Road, placed a revolver on the counter and asked an employee if he had ever been robbed before.

The employee alleged the man asked if he wanted to "get messed up right now," and the employee talked the man, who appeared to be intoxicated, into picking up the gun and leaving the store, he told authorities.

While police were searching for the man from the Coachman incident, they were told a gun had been fired near Coolidge Junior High School and found that a man had fired a gun and threatened someone inside "Terry's", 3200 Nameoki Road, across from the school.

Webb was arrested there and a gun was found hidden in a nearby towel rack.

Roger Hickman of the 3200 block of Maryville Road, said a man walked past the service station window, made an obscene gesture to him, and then entered, saying, "The bigger they are, the harder they fall," and displayed a gun from his waistband.

Police were told the man waved the gun around, threatened Hickman and fired a shot into the garage area, the bullet striking a concrete wall. He then turned, pointed the gun at Hickman and when Hickman grabbed for the gun, the man pulled it away and threatened him again.

Webb's bond was set at $10,000 in that case on charges of unlawful use of a weapon, discharging a firearm in the city limits, illegal transportation of liquor and two counts of aggravated assault.

Circuit Judge William Beatty reduced the bond to a total of $3,000 and Webb was released on $300 cash. Later, Webb pleaded guilty to one count of aggravated assault and the other charges were dismissed "nolle prosequere" (no prosecution). He was fined a total of $60.

Judge Clark said Friday that he gave probation to Webb in the reckless homicide case for several reasons, including Webb's good response to help, he has been getting cooperation by his company, sincerity and the time he has spent in jails and other facilities.

He called Webb's case "a long and involved case," and said a great deal of work and effort has gone into finding the best program for the future. Family and work considerations, as well as the conditions of probation, should be in the best interests of Webb and the community, Clark said.

EPA says the suggested study would cost $165,000. IMAGE stands for Involvement and Management Advance Growth and Employment.

"No one has an objection to cleaning up the air," Robert Weiss, IMAGE chairman, said. "The problem is the standard which has been set. As of July 1979, we're dead as far as any further industrial construction in Southern Illinois."

Meeting with the construction and industrial group were Sen. Sam

Vadalahe, D-Edwardsville; Sen. Kenneth Hall, D-East St. Louis; Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton; and Rep. Sam W. Wolf, D-Granite City.

"What disturbs us is EPA's lack of concern for the effect these regulations have on jobs in Southern Illinois," Byron Farrell, IMAGE co-chairman, told the legislators.

Rep. McPike urged involvement by representatives of the Southern Illinois construction industry and manufacturers in upcoming Illinois EPA Senate budget hearings.

Sen. Vadalahe said he will request a meeting between Gov. Thompson, EPA officials and representatives of IMAGE.

Industrial representatives at the meeting cited projects which have been relocated or abandoned due to the current standards.

"Here we have a good way to increase industrial growth without harming the quality of the air," C. K. Chalokide, an environmental official with the Monsanto Co., said.

Hospital

The week long celebration began yesterday and continues through Saturday, May 12.

Both the blood pressure screenings and nutrition clinics will be held in the Out Patient Clinic, located on the medical center's ground floor level.

Registered nurses and licensed practical nurses from St. Elizabeth's staff will administer the screening tests.

Staff dietitians also will be present to discuss dietary requirements, answer questions and distribute appropriate literature.

The public is invited to take part in the free clinics, a hospital spokesman said.

In addition to operating the highly successful restaurant, Hester is active in the Democratic party and has been a national convention delegate. He heads the Madison County Tavern Owners' Association.

During the weekend, Hester attributed the problem to lack of "a sophisticated bookkeeping system" and said part of the estimated $25,000 taxes owed has been forwarded to the state government. He has sought a payment schedule for the remainder, he commented.

The restaurant proprietor said the error on tax payments had been detected internally and that the corporation had been preparing to amend its returns.

On Saturday, April 12, Jaclyn will be among the candidates in a talent contest on the Edwardsville campus of SIU, Mrs. Yount said.

Another tenant for former General Steel plant site

David N. Jones, board of chairman of the Steelabrade Corp., estimates that 100 new jobs will be created and that his firm will spend $1,500,000 to $2 million to equip a 100,000-square-foot area of Granite City Steel's south works, formerly the Commonwealth plant of General Steel Industries.

A contract calls for Steelabrade to use part of the Commonwealth facilities for warehousing and processing of sheet and coiled steel. While work is being started now, it will be at least a year before production can start, Jones says.

A new Granite City Steel product line is planned, including purins and girls, steel items used to bolt together the frames of metal buildings.

The investment by Steelabrade will include coil-slitting lines and a 175-foot-long coil painting line.

While work is being started now, it will be at least a year before production can start, Jones says.

Structural work law said to cost millions

(Southern Illinois Builders Association)

In a statement before the Illinois Senate Labor and Commerce Committee last week, Harry H. Niemann, vice-president of Luhr Bros., Inc., Columbia, said the Illinois Structural Work Act, more commonly known as the Scaffold Act, is costing his firm $25,000 each year. Considering the hundreds of millions of dollars in construction projects awarded in Illinois through its contracting agencies, the Department of Transportation and the Capital Development Board, the cost of the Scaffold Act to Illinois taxpayers is staggering.

Senator Roger Keats has introduced Senate Bill 888 which would repeal the Structural Work Act. This bill is now being considered in the Senate Labor Committee.

Niemann said, "Our firm is a heavy-highway contractor presently working in Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Louisiana, Wyoming, California and Washington. During the years, we have had projects and are authorized to do business in 14 other states."

"My duties for the firm are insurance buyer and safety director. I presently serve on the National Associated General Contractors Safety Committee and am the immediate past chairman of the Southern Illinois Builders Association Safety Committee and remain an active member."

"For the last five consecutive years, our association has received the National Safety Council's Association Safety Award for efforts in promoting high standards of safety as practiced by their membership."

"The Illinois Structural Work Act of 1907 is more commonly known as the Scaffold Act. Our brokers, Alexander and Alexander, have set out the rates for computing the cost of coverage required because of the Scaffold Act for the basic limits of liability of $25,000, as compared to the rate for all the other states which do not have the Scaffold Act."

"Factors for the additional cost of increased limits of liability are also shown. The rate shown as BI (bodily injury) is the differing rate, as this refers to bodily injury and is where the Scaffold Act coverage is afforded."

"I have prepared a computation of costs on a $2,000,000 project, comparing Illinois with all other states."

"For $25,000 liability limit, listing Illinois first and then all other states, the first $500,000 costs $365 or $170, the next $500,000 $185 or $90 and over $1,000,000 $50 or the same, with grand totals of $600 or $310."

"On $500,000 liability limit, the same comparisons are $647 or $379, $234 or $206 and $210 or $107, totals of $1,181 or $692."

"For $1,000,000 liability limit, the comparisons are $528 or $446, $472 or $237, $257 or $133, totals of $1,657 or $816."

"Illinois costs are double that of other states. Consider then the hundreds of millions of dollars of construction projects awarded in the state of Illinois through its contracting agencies, such as the department of Transportation, Capital Development Board and all the others. You can see the waste, the unnecessary cost due to the Scaffold Act.

"Our small firm alone pays approximately $25,000 each year for this Scaffold Act coverage, which we must in turn pass on to our customers, primarily the State of Illinois and the federal government, or you and I, the taxpayer."

"We, the people of this state through our elected representatives have the power through Senate Bill 888 to eliminate this cost from our state product."

"It would enhance the economy of our state to repeal the Scaffold Act."

Communicating in the grocery store

Did you ever notice the way people DON'T communicate? It is as though they were in a foreign country, where no one spoke the language.

I walked into a store one night and decided to find out if my fellow shoppers could speak. The results made me realize that the code of silence cannot only be broken, but that it is a lot of fun to communicate with people you don't know.

I started with one lady who was going out of the door as I was entering. I smiled at her and gave her a friendly "Good evening!" She stared at me for a fraction of a second and then broke into a smile, returning my greeting as she wheeled her cart through the door.

"Now that didn't hurt me," I thought, "matter of fact, it was fun!" I decided that this was going to be a nice way to get my shopping done. I made it a point to smile and speak to each shopper I passed. I stopped to help a lady who was struggling to reach something on one of the top shelves. We had a short discussion on the merits of having managers who were 5 foot 2, as she was.

One little old man was so interesting that I nearly forgot to pick up the milk I had gone in after. He had stories to tell about the market place in his native Greece.

In these times, when everything is automated and big, we sometimes forget that the people we encounter are not just a part of the scenery. I found that once I had broken the code of silence, going shopping seemed much less of a chore.

I got in the checkout line and the man in front of me let me go ahead of him. We began talking about the crowd in the store that evening and soon the lady behind him and the man behind her joined in.

There we were, a group of strangers standing in a checkout line, talking and laughing and having a great time. The checker thought we were a little weird until she too was brought into the conversation.

Next time you are in the grocery store or your favorite shopping center, you might want to give communicating a try. You may find, as I did, that we are not strangers in this world at all, just people who are sometimes a little too busy to say "Good evening."

Cost-of-living pay increases

A hefty cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) has become effective at Granite City Steel because of the recent steep rise in living costs.

Effective May 1, the COLA increase was 22 cents an hour for hourly-paid employees and $38.06 a month for salaried people.

The adjustment is based on the government's Consumer Price Index each three months.

The increases bring the total hourly COLA to 47 cents an hour after the Aug. 1.

1978, "roll-in" when previous adjustments became a permanent part of wages.

Bricklayers and hod-carriers will be the first to see the difference in their paychecks, because their next payday is May 4. Most other hourly employees will see the boost reflected in their paychecks on May 10.

The total salaried COLA is now $81.31 a month above the "roll-in." The new COLA rate will be paid in checks distributed May 31.

No further adjustment will be made until Aug. 1.

OBN Club meets in GC

Mrs. Theola Garcia of Granite City hosted a meeting of the OBN Club last week at her home, with most of the time spent socially.

The group derives its name from O'Bear Nester Glass Company in East St. Louis, where all 26 members were employed prior to the plant closing its operations there.

A covered dish luncheon was served by the hostess. A fashion show was conducted by the members, using a country and western theme, and games were played for the remainder of the afternoon.

Mrs. Jo Burgener, club president, said the group will meet once a month and any former woman employee of O'Bear Nester is invited to attend, or to call her at 931-6011 for further information. Plans were made to enter the annual Shriners parade in June and to hold the May meeting at Wilson Park, with Mrs. Darlene Franke of Cahokia as the hostess.

Also attending the luncheon meeting were Mesdames Dorothy Casey, Mary Brothers, Loretta Hughes, Masie Gregory, Ginger Howland, Claudine Claudia, Ruth Madon, Wilma Ortiz, Larkey Serano and Virginia Becker, all of Granite City.

Mesdames Margaret Toon, Linda Shackelford, Darlene Franke and Marie Garner, all of Cahokia; and Miss Madeline Crockett and Mesdames Margie Richards, Helen Edwards, Ann Clark and Sandra Berg, all of Collinsville.

Mrs. Delvera Eisele, 49, Fairview Heights, was injured in an auto accident last week and was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center with a headache and pain to her neck and back. X-rays were taken and she was admitted.

Death and the child

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Death and Dying: Challenge and Change." In this article, George E. Williams, of the University of Minnesota, suggests how to teach children about death. This series was written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

VIII: DEATH AND THE CHILD. By GEORGE E. WILLIAMS

The time to prepare a child for the trauma of another person's death is — as for all of us — long before the event itself.

Death is a normal part of the child's environment. By the age of three most children have seen flowers die; many have also seen a dead bird or animal in the street or yard, or perhaps they have had a pet die.

The young, curious mind will be promoted to ask, "Where did it go?" "Who made it?" "What about me; can I die, too?"

The failure of parents to respond to questions about death or a negative response from them may cause a child to feel that "nice" boys and girls do not ask about such "bad" things. When this happens, a child's questions about death will remain unasked and therefore unanswered.

If, on the other hand, death is explained as a natural part of living, as part of the life cycle, a child will begin to develop an intellectual understanding of the concept along with the feeling that death is normal.

TEACHING ABOUT DEATH.

Such an opportunity to explain death to a child comes, for instance, when his or her pet dies.

Although possibly time-consuming for the parent, the experience of holding a funeral or burying a dead pet can be very valuable for the child.

The child gains some knowledge about what death means as well as an understanding of his parents' attitude toward death.

Since play is one of the principal ways in which children learn, the drama of burying a dead pet naturally produces questions that should be answered directly, honestly and simply.

Many times a child will dig up a buried pet, either to deny the fact of the pet's death or to satisfy a curiosity as to what really happened to it. The need to deny is strong because death means separation and represents a finality that the child finds difficult to understand.

But if a child's attitudes toward death are built gradually through experience with birds, flowers, and family pets, and are reinforced by good examples on the part of adults, he or she will be prepared to deal with the death of a loved person when the time comes.

THE NEED TO GRIEVE.

In the past, children under the age of nine in our culture were often regarded as too young to understand death or to experience grief and were therefore excluded from demonstrations of grief as well as from funerals.

As a result, the child often felt left out and rejected, unable to comprehend his or her own emotions and physiological reactions to grief.

Although children are now often included in the family's mourning, many people still say, "The child is too young to understand" or, "The child is too young to remember the deceased."

On the contrary, when a loved person has died, a child needs to participate with the rest of the family in the mourning rites and to learn that grief is a natural reaction to death, one in which he or she is involved.

Adults often have trouble helping children handle their grief because of their own unresolved feelings about death or because they are enmeshed in their own sorrow.

Evading the issue with remarks about children being "too young" may bring a degree of comfort to adults. But refusing to answer the child's questions or fail to deal with a child's feelings can cause unnecessary pain to the emotional damage.

The child must be allowed to talk openly and honestly about his or her feelings and be permitted to express emotions appropriate to grief.

Children combine their own defense mechanisms with what they are told by parents and friends to arrive at ideas about death, dying, and afterlife that are comfortable to them. Ultimately, the child plays the game of pretending to understand death so that face can be saved, sophistication can be assumed, and support can be obtained from the peer group.

The child's degree of comfort with this type of resolution depends upon feelings about himself or herself as a person and the support obtained from family members.

REACTIONS TO LOSS.

The mourning that accompanies death focuses on one of the commonest fears of childhood: separation. To a child, separation means there will be no one to take care of him or her or to provide not only physical needs but also emotional needs. Fear of separation is tied to the fear of being hurt and becomes part of the complicated reaction to loss that a child experiences.

In children, this reaction to loss normally has five facets. The first is denial and isolation. To avoid facing the painful separation, the child says, "No, this didn't happen," and, "If I isolate myself from people who are talking about this terrible thing, it won't have happened."

One aspect of denial is the frequency with which children claim to have seen a dead relative. If they have "seen" the person, there is a need to grieve. While children talk about this phenomenon quite readily, I suspect it occurs just as frequently in adults; adults, however, are unwilling to admit it.

The second facet is anger: the child is hurt by the separation and extremely angry. After his father's death, one young boy displayed his anger and confusion by saying that his father "had never done this before."

Anger may cover up guilt feelings resulting from a child's ordinary and very natural acts of thoughtlessness or rebellion. The child may feel that his thoughts helped to cause the death and that therefore he or she is responsible for it. The child is afraid that if people "really knew the truth" they would blame him for the death.

Most children cannot understand their ambivalent feelings nor do they know that such feelings occur throughout life normally. Their anger is a defense against these complicated emotions as well as against the confusion and anxiety they feel in connection with the death.

The third facet of reaction to loss is bargaining. The child tries to change the painful reality by making promises such as "I will be very, very good," in the belief that somehow this will bring the dead person back to life.

The fourth facet is depression: anger turned back on the self. Perhaps the child was angry at the person who died; now, with the person gone, the child turns this feeling inward. Or the depression may stem from an attempt to handle guilt.

Children often think, "If I had been the right kind of person, this would not have happened."

Grief and mourning — particularly in the depression stage — are frequently accompanied by pains in the chest or throughout the entire body. One of the commonest physical symptoms is throat pain, which can be a defense against talking about feelings and is usually related to an inability to share with, and feel comforted by, supportive people.

The various facets of grief in children do not necessarily occur in a set order, nor do they occur in the same way in every child. In most instances, however, they do culminate in a final stage, resolution: the acceptance of the death.

Like older people, children may appear to have accepted a death intellectually, but psychologically and even physiologically, painful feelings can continue.

Resolution may take considerable time, but the beginning of the resolution phase is apparent when the grieving child starts to recall and talk about pleasant and happy memories of the loved one who has died.

The views expressed in COURSES BY NEWSPAPER are those of the authors only and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of California, the funding agency, or the participating newspapers and colleges.

NEXT WEEK: Colin Murray Parkes of the London Hospital Medical College discusses grief and reactions to loss.

Home sale can cut tax liability

In some situations taxpayers can defer part or all of the tax liability from capital gains realized when they sell their home for more than it cost them.

According to a law effective as of July 26, 1978, taxpayers over the age of 55 may also have an additional tax break coming when they sell a personal residence.

The Illinois State Bar Association says the deferral on capital gains is available to all taxpayers who sell or exchange their personal residences and meet the following conditions:

(1) The taxpayer purchases and occupies another residence within 18 months before or after the date of sale;

(2) The taxpayer begins construction of a new principal residence within 18 months before or after the date of sale, and occupies it not later than 24 months after the sale; or

(3) The purchase price of the replacement residence equals or exceeds the sale price of the former residence.

Up until July 1978, the law limited homeowners to one such deferral every 18 months, but under the new law the homeowner will be allowed more than one deferral within 18 months if the homeowner moves for employment reasons.

The capital gains tax applies to that portion of the sale price of the old residence, less selling expenses and "fixing-up" expenses that is above the original cost of the residence.

Expenses for "fixing-up" the residence for sale (painting, repairs, etc.) can be deducted from the sales price if they are performed within 90 days before the sale or that is in the home and if the work was paid for within 30 days after the sale.

A taxpayer who is 55 years of age before the date of sale may be able to exclude part or all of the gain on the sale of a residence from gross income.

Due to the new "one time only" provision, the elderly can take an exclusion of up to $100,000 of profit on a home sale ($50,000 in the case of a separate return by a married individual) instead of the old tax benefit based on sales price.

To qualify for the exclusion, the taxpayer also must have owned and used the property sold as a principal residence for at least three years out of the five years preceding the date of sale.

It is not necessary that the home is the principal residence at the time of the actual sale, as long as the above condition is met.

Speech on Matriarchy

Liz Shanklin, organizer of the National Foundation for Matriarchy, will speak at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Tuesday at 6 p.m. in Meridian Hall of the University Center.

The speech has been scheduled as part of the Women's Week observance at the University, May 7-11, sponsored by the campus chapter of Women for Women (692-2019).

Liz Shanklin will discuss the concept of matriarchy and the future of the women's movement.

"Most people think of matriarchy as female dominance," she has said, "but really it is a society which is focused on nurturing, not governance."

She described the National Foundation for Matriarchy as a "political organization" which is trying to bring about a matriarchal form of government.

State joins probe of Barton office

The Fraud and Forgery Unit of the state Division of Criminal Investigation and the Madison County state's attorney's office are conducting a joint investigation into the operations of the office of Madison County Supervisor of Assessments James Barton, it was disclosed Thursday.

Last month, Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron asked the state to help "clear the air" about allegations Barton's office had aided political friends with lower assessments through "certificates of error," and had been unfair in some assessments, particularly in eastern Madison County townships. Thursday, it was announced that the state probe has begun.

Barton, who is from Granite City, has been under attack since it was disclosed that his office lowered some taxes through filing certificates of error. The certificates allowed those filing them to obtain reduced assessments on their homes and properties.

Barton has told the Press-Record the certificates are widely used in the state and have been used in Madison County for many years, by himself and previous supervisors of assessment. He said the certificates are particularly helpful in correcting errors discovered too late for Board of Review hearing consideration and in the case of reduced assessments for senior citizens.

A group called the Organizing Committee for Eastern Madison County has been seeking Barton's resignation or firing on the basis of the reduced assessments as well as what they call unfair multipliers placed on townships in the eastern portion of the county.

The group met last week with Byron and demanded an investigation. Byron said he already had asked the state to aid in an investigation, so the probe was not the result of pressure from the committee.

Barton welcomes the probe to set the record straight about the operation of his department. He said he feels assessments in eastern Madison County have typically been made fair, contending they have been too low for years.

He said his records will be open to the investigators and he predicted the probe will clear him of allegations of wrongdoing.

Man charged with driving on lawns

Jack N. Malone, 36, of 14 Victoria Drive, Pontoon Beach, was charged with reckless driving and five counts of criminal damage to property after he allegedly drove his auto through five yards early Saturday.

Police said they were near Willow and Edgewood avenues at 1:55 a.m. Saturday when they saw two autos driving at high speed. It appeared one was chasing the other, police said.

They stopped the second car and the driver alleged the driver of the first car nearly ran his auto off the roadway after the first car drove through several lawns.

The other auto was stopped a short time later at Nameoki and Johnson roads and Malone was arrested. It is alleged he drove through both the front and rear yards at the home and office of Dr. Larry Shipley, 3278 Edgewood Ave., damaging bushes and leaving ruts in the lawn.

The auto then drove onto the front lawn at the home of Earl Witting and through a large evergreen bush. It then allegedly continued onto Emeret Avenue and turned right on Willow Avenue at a high rate of speed, with the second car following it. Police then stopped the second vehicle.

Later, officers were told the lawns of three homes on Newell Avenue had been damaged by an auto and tire ruts were found in the front yards at the homes of James Griffin, 3208 Newell Ave., Connie Sinovich, 3210 Newell Ave., and John Gresco, 3214 Newell Ave.

The owners signed complaints against Malone and he was lodged in the Granite City Jail.

Mrs. Seibold was born in Germany and resided here 70 years. Her late husband, Reinhold Seibold and his brother, the late Herman Seibold, founded the Seibold Brothers Bakery in 1920 and Mrs. Seibold aided in its operation.

During World War II, after the founders and their sons were drafted into the military, Mrs. Seibold and her daughter, Mrs. Raymond (Elsie) Henley, operated the bakery.

The Seibold business grew into a chain which now has seven outlets, including the Bellemore Village, Mason Avenue and Army Installation shops in Granite City. Other Mrs. Seibold bakeries are in Wood River, East Alton, Edwardsville and Alton.

Changes in the Social Security law which increased the tax for wage earners on January 1 left the rate for the self-employed unchanged. Nevertheless, self-employed people pay a higher tax than wage earners.

The self-employed were brought into the program in 1951 and started paying 4.25% on the first $3,600 (or $81). That same year a worker for wages paid $4. on the amount earned. This year, the tax for wage earners went from 5.05% to 6.13% and the taxable amount from $17,000 to $22,900. The rate for self-employed is 8.1%, the same as in 1978. By 1982, it will be 9.35% as compared with 6.7% for the wage earner.

2-hour parking limit now enforced full-time

Strict enforcement of Granite City's two-hour limit on parking meters and of meters where the time has expired is now under way, according to Granite City Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer.

The chief said the addition of one policeman to the staff May 1 enabled him to assign a patrolman full-time to the downtown area, as well as the part-time hours Patrolman Sam Avedisian devotes to downtown parking.

Assigned full-time to the downtown area is Patrolman Ervin Keuenhoff. Avedisian said he has been making a concerted effort the past few weeks to enforce the two-hour parking limit and to ticket cars for violations of the time on the meters, but added that Keuenhoff will enable the police to do an even better job.

Complaints, by storeowners that customers have been unable to find a place to park while shopping downtown have been heard since warmer weather started, and the crackdown is an effort to provide more convenient parking for shoppers, Veizer said.

Tickets for parking at a meter which reads "violation" are $1, but tickets for parking more than two hours at a meter are $5. In some instances, persons parking at a meter will find two tickets on their cars, the first issued for a meter violation and the second issued two hours later for violation of the two-hour limit.

The penalty for a meter violation doubles to $2, if the ticket is not paid within 24 hours.

"We want to stop people who work downtown from parking at meters all day, so that shoppers can find a place to park. Inability to park for shopping is detrimental to the downtown area and we have tried for some time to stop downtown employees from parking all day at the meters."

"The council promised that May 1, the start of the city's fiscal year, we would be able to add a policeman and have one man assigned full-time to the downtown area, which we now have done. I think it is only fair to warn the people we are chalking tires and watching the meters, full time, and violators will receive tickets," Veizer explained.

"I also think it is important that we keep the collection of parking fines in city hall, even after the police department moves to the new police building next to the main fire station next month."

"People are used to paying fines, within 24 hours, in city hall and to move the collections to Madison Avenue would cause confusion. The secretary, who handles the tickets, will have more duties in the new building, making it more important that a new person be assigned to the city hall," Veizer concluded.

The Granite City Council's finance committee is now considering that request.

Mrs. Anna Reedy dies

Mrs. Anna M. (Maron) Reedy, 78, of 2928 Iowa St., died at 12:38 p.m. Friday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She had been ill five years and at the medical center five days.

Mrs. Reedy was born in St. Louis and lived here 42 years. She was a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church and the Legion of Dickran R. Ennien, 84, of 2131 Grand Ave., died at 12:13 a.m. Friday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center of a heart attack. He had been a patient there for one hour.

after 30 years as a molder. Among his survivors are a niece, Adrienne Noubarian, Fairview Heights, and a nephew, Charles Ennien, Belleville.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Gilbert Klossner dies

Gilbert Klossner, 59, of 2050 Edwardsville Road, Madison, died at his home at 6:10 a.m. Friday. He had been ill and under a doctor's care for one hour.

Mr. Klossner was born in Missouri and was a carpenter with the Carpenters' District Council of Madison County and vicinity, Ill.

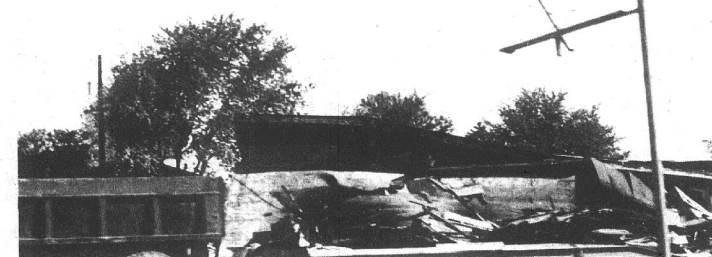

Funeral arrangements may be found in today's obituary column.

Assault charged

Leonard Crone Jr., 17, of the 1100 block of Grand Ave., Madison, was arrested Friday on a warrant alleging battery.

He allegedly grabbed 15-year-old Penny Poe of the 2400 block of Iowa Street at the Pop Dock, 2526 Nameeki Road, at 9:15 p.m. Thursday, pulled her to the rear of the building, displayed a knife and threatened to kill her. She alleged he held her 25 to 30 minutes before releasing her. She hailed a passing taxicab and went home to call police.

Officers said that when they arrested Crone in Granite City Friday, they found a knife in a pocket of his trousers.

WALLS TUMBLING DOWN. The building which housed the Marco Polo Lounge, Groucho's Tavern and other taverns in the past came tumbling down as wrecking crews went to work Wednesday. The building had been condemned by the county for numerous months and was the cause of several complaints to the township and county by nearby residents who believed demolition was being delayed. The location is Route 162 at Eduardo Drive.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN SIX YEARS a school outside of Chicago has won the annual educational seminar and tournament of the Illinois State Society of Radiologic Technologists, held in Springfield. Belleville Area College placed first in the education portion of the tournament, which used a "college bowl" format of questions and responses. Representing BAC were students Patsy Painter, Belleville, and Nancy Weeks, Granite City, and Alternate Rhonda Beare, Millsstadt. Also participating were instructors Dottie Bowers, Granite City, and Tommie Vallino, Maryville, who is coordinator of the program at BAC. Vallino presented a two hour "rap" session with students and Dottie Bowers gave a three hour registry review class. Left to right are Vallino, Weeks, Beare, Painter and Bowers.

Statewide blood bank discussed

The establishment of a statewide blood banking system will be among the major issues discussed during the Illinois State Medical Society's (ISMS) House of Delegates annual meeting, May 5-9, at the Palmer House Hotel, Chicago. The House is the policy-making body of the 14,300-member Society.

The proposal, one of more than 25 resolutions slated for discussion, calls on the ISMS to assist in developing a centralized blood banking system to coordinate the activities of existing regional blood centers throughout the state.

It also calls on ISMS to encourage all hospitals and medical facilities to participate in the system through affiliation with a regional center in their area. An estimated 50 hospitals in the Chicago area alone are not affiliated with a regional blood replacement center.

"Because whole blood can be stored for only 21 days, we hope a statewide system would allow even distribution and maximal use of the state's blood supply," according to ISMS President Dr. David Fox. "Centralized management would attempt to eliminate a situation in which one hospital is in desperate need of blood while another is discarding an outdated surplus."

RECOVER CANOE

A witness saw several youths steal a canoe from the rear yard at the home of Joan Wachter, 2739 Sunset Drive, Thursday and reported the theft to the owner. Police were told the canoe had been carried toward the Nameeki drainage ditch and checked the ditch, finding the canoe abandoned and half full of water in the culvert under Maryville Road. A tow truck was required to remove it from the culvert.

IN CAR CRASH

John Crosby, 27, of 215 Hampton St., Venice, was in an auto accident last week and was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was checked and released.

GC Council urges split of Sanitary District

The Granite City Council has gone on record as supporting splitting of the Metro-East Sanitary District along county lines.

Second Ward Alderman Sam Whitmer noted that Madison County trustees on the levee district board have proposed such a split as one solution for the current deadlock on the board and Whitmer stated, "I think if the city could initiate a wave to try again to separate Madison and St. Clair counties, we would be doing the people of Madison County, and especially Granite City, a real good deed."

The city council passed a motion authorizing Mayor Paul Schuler and city officials "to do anything in their power to find out how to get a separation of the levee district started," and it was recommended that Schuler contact state senators and representatives from this area to ask for the support.

In other business, the council was informed that the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency will hold a public hearing in the Granite City city hall Wednesday, Thursday, May 23 and 24, on air pollution from the Granite City Steel sinter plant. The hearing will begin at 10 a.m. All interested aldermen were invited to attend.

The council agreed to advertise for bids for a carpet vacuum, two buffers and carpet cleaners and a high-pressure spray washer to help keep the new city clean.

Everett Patterson dies

Everett Ray Patterson, 64, of Portland, Ore., a former Granite City resident, died in Portland Friday and will be buried there tomorrow.

Patterson was a native of Illinois and resided in Granite City until two years ago when he moved to Oregon.

He retired last year after many years as a cook, including employment with the Fred Harvey restaurant chain. He was a Navy veteran of World War II. Surviving are a daughter, probationary patrolman. The council, seated as the Granite City Town Board, approved township bills totaling $8,852 from the town fund, $5,418 in general assistance and $1,000 from the revenue sharing fund.

They also agreed to sell tax anticipation warrants totaling $50,000 for the town fund and $10,000 for municipal retirement.

A five-foot load limit was approved for 28th Street from Nameeki Drive to Missouri Avenue, due to a rough rail crossing there which is causing trucks to become "hung-up on the crossing," according to Mayor Schuler. The ordinance provides for fines ranging from $25 to $50 for exceeding the load limit.

Bids were opened for re-roofing the Granite City Hall and Gesler's Roofing was selected as low bidder for $14,492. The work carries a 20-year guarantee. The only other bidder was Lakeside Roofing at $20,327.

Reading becoming fun for many Illinois pupils

Child do not throw this book about; Refrain from the unholy pleasure Of cutting all the pictures out! Preserve it as your chief treasure.

—Hilaire Belloc

For grownups who take books for granted it may be hard to conceive of never owning a single book. And yet for millions of children, the only books available to them are school textbooks. Many thousands of youngsters come from homes where there are no books.

Thanks to a modest experiment begun in 1966, Reading is Fundamental has helped motivate children to read through pride of book ownership.

Founded by Mrs. Robert McNamara, the program operates in 50 states. Last year, more than one million children chose to read and keep, as their own, five million paperback books through community RIF (reading is fun) projects.

In Illinois, more than 600 school districts and private schools now participate in RIF programs.

Due to enthusiastic support given by schools, civic organizations, and the State Board of Education, Illinois is the only recipient of $1.5 million to establish a pilot Reading Is Fundamental textbook loan program.

Phase I of the program (grades 8-12) will be financed with $500,000 provided for Illinois children by this program.

These funds will provide additional books beyond those acquired through the Secular Textbook Loan Program.

Phase II of the program (grades kindergarten-7) provides an additional $1 million and becomes operational after May 1979. Under the pilot program, books will be placed in RIF lending libraries as opposed to direct distribution to children.

According to Mrs. McNamara, founder of Reading Is Fundamental, the regular program is based on two motivating factors—freedom of choice and pride of ownership.

"Youngsters may choose from a wide variety of attractive paperback books, which they may keep," she says. "Simply stated, the goal is to insure that books are available to all children—to read, borrow, and own. The books we get for children are books that they can read just for the fun of it."

The program involves not only millions of children, but also thousands of parents, educators, librarians, business people, and civic, fraternal and service organizations.

The program initially began as a service to poor children whose families could not afford to buy books and in areas where books were not easily available. According to Mrs. McNamara, "We learned that freedom of choice and pride of ownership work at all socio-economic levels, and the program was opened to all children."

Children in the program receive two books, three times a year. They choose the books that interest them and they keep those books.

According to a representative of the Chicago area schools participating, "The children take extreme care in protecting their books." Teachers relate stories of finding textbooks carelessly scattered about, while RIF books are rarely forgotten or abandoned.

The best testimonial is from the children who participate in the program. One youngster's evaluation was, "I like it because you can get a book and read it until you are 60 years old if you want and nobody can send you an overdue note."

Federal matching funds pay for 50 percent of the cost of books purchased by individual projects meeting program criteria. However, Mrs. McNamara is quick to point out that this is not a giveaway program.

"The program requires a tremendous amount of effort from all involved in local projects. Not only must they raise half of the money to pay for the books, but they are also involved in the choice of books, as well as the logistics of ordering and distribution."

She adds, "Perhaps the most important facet of the local program is creating the book-related activities that excite the children's anticipation on Reading is Fundamental Day."

EXPERT APPRAISING
MORRIS REALTY CO.

512 firms are aided by safety visits

State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) is urging business owners in the 50th District to take advantage of a free on-site safety and health consultation program designed to help Illinois businesses comply with the Occupational Safety and Health Act and to make Illinois workplaces safer and healthier.

"This new program is designed to help employers avoid the penalties that federal OSHA compliance officers would impose if they found an operation to be in violation of their standards," Wolf said.

The program is 90 percent funded by the federal government and is conducted by the Office of Manpower and Human Development. The consultations are made by professional industrial safety and hygiene experts and are confidential. The inspectors are only advisors, have no enforcement powers and cannot issue penalties or citations.

After an owner has requested an on-site consultation, an inspector will come out and walk through a facility, noting any potential violations or health and safety hazards.

Within 15 working days after completion of the inspection, the consultant will submit a written report to the business. The report will spell out observed hazards, standards that have been violated, and the suggested remedies. If requested, the consultant will return to the business after improvements have been made to determine whether the corrections were sufficient, or if further action is necessary.

The industrial safety consultants offer assistance with such industrial safety problems as machine guarding, electrical code regulations, housekeeping, welding and cutting, and storage and handling of hazardous materials. They can also provide assistance in organizing or improving safety programs.

The industrial hygienists provide such services as environmental monitoring, noise surveys, fume, dust, mist vapor, gas and ventilation studies and chemical analysis and interpretation.

"In the first year of the program, 512 site visits were made," Rep. Wolf said. "Businesses that have had the inspections have been complimentary of the service. They also applauded the follow-up service, because it assured them that the deficiencies had been satisfactorily corrected."

The On-Site Consultation Program's toll-free hotline is 800-972-4216.

ANGRY EXCHANGE of words during a meeting of the Metro-East Sanitary District Board last week at Washington Park. Commissioner Robert Eastern, displaying a raised hand, accused Madison County commissioners of attempting to discredit a supervisor from St. Clair County for not keeping proper vacation and sick leave records. "The supervisor does not keep those records. The office employees should. You've all got to be crazy," Eastern stated as this photo was taken. From the left are Board President Russell Robinson of Granite City, and commissioners Omar Brumitt and Easter, both from St. Clair County, and Walter "Shang" Greathouse of Granite City. Can you grow rhododendrons?

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
Area Adviser, Horticulture

Whether to plant rhododendrons is often a question. Undoubtedly, rhododendrons are one of the most beautiful ornamental evergreen plants. They are a relatively expensive plant to purchase and must be provided with special soil.

Rhododendron plants are best suited under light to moderate shade, and should be located where they get at least afternoon shade, beginning at about 1 p.m.

They are excellent plants for the north or east sides of buildings, but may be used in other locations if they receive light shade from trees or other evergreen plants.

Too much sun in summer results in excessive heating and drying which can cause plant damage. Excessive winter sun in late afternoon may result in leaf scorch.

Rhododendrons should be planted in a deep, organic, well drained soil. Clay soils should be heavily amended with peatmoss, leaf mold and sometimes coarse sand if better drainage is needed.

If drainage in the area tends to be poor, rhododendrons should be planted in beds that are raised above the soil level by 8 to 12 inches.

Rhododendrons need an acid soil.

If in doubt, soil should be tested to determine its acidity. These plants grow best with a soil pH of about 5, but can tolerate acidity ranges from pH 4.5 to 6.0.

Rhododendrons have very fine, shallow roots. Do not cultivate them after planting, but mulch the with leaves, bark, or other organic materials.

Plant them with the soil ball slightly higher than the soil line because settling may occur, and they should never be planted too deeply.

Summer watering is usually essential, especially during the first few years after planting. Their fine, shallow roots are easily damaged by excessively dry conditions. Mulch helps minimize the problem, but is not a total solution during drought conditions and hot weather.

Rhododendrons need little care once established. Little pruning is necessary, although flower heads should be removed after flowering is completed.

Future Education Day—ideas for career minded students

Students who are near to graduating from high school have many questions on what to do with themselves after graduation. The Granite City school district's guidance department came up with Future Education Day to answer some of those questions.

April 24 was Future Education Day at South. As students wandered through the gym, there were many things to see and people to talk to. Ideas for vocational and college training were abundant. The students were able to compare colleges and technical institutions simply by asking questions and going through the printed material presented by the various schools. The military was also represented. Nearly every branch of the service had people there telling the students of the opportunities each offered.

The girls seemed to be interested in the military. Many had questions as to what training opportunities were available for women. Some wanted to know about such things as nurses training while others wanted to know the travel opportunities.

Tom Holloway, director of vocational and industrial arts, and Roy McConkey, career and vocational placement counselor for the district, were responsible for the day's activities. Sondra Kopsky, a counselor at South, served as coordinator for the program.

Colleges were represented that day, but the emphasis was more toward vocational training. Students who wanted to look into short term training programs took a particular interest in Future Education Day.

Some students either don't have the grades or the means to attend a four year college. Others simply don't want to wait that long before entering the work force.

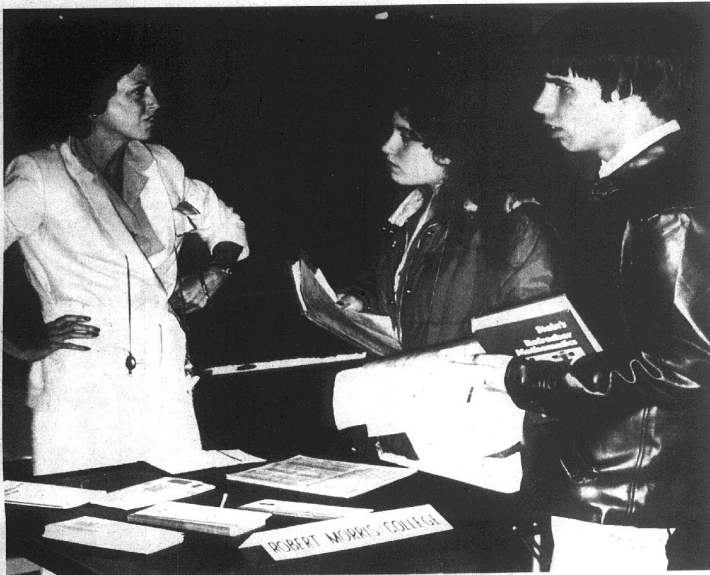

For them, the many ideas for vocational training represented that day were most informative. There are many career opportunities in fields such as advertising art, aviation mechanics, camera service and repair, drafting, fashion illustration and hundreds of others available through various two year programs.

Many of the area's vocational schools and five colleges sent representatives to answer students' questions.

Granite City Steel was also represented, giving students ideas on some of its apprenticeship programs.

All in all, those who attended were provided with many ways to go. And for some, the question of "Where do I go from here?" was answered.

TALKING THINGS OVER. Future Education Day at South meant finding out what is available in the way of training after high school. Above, Judy Knox (left) discusses possibilities

Insect-free crops by home gardeners

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

Home gardeners who raise cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, and other cole crops may have a difficult time controlling caterpillars or worms.

Without effective control, these worms can devour much of the plant and its edible parts. In fact, entire cabbage plants can be infested, leaving only stunted heads full of caterpillars.

Home gardeners can now purchase a bacterial agent called Bacillus thuringiensis.

This material can be applied as a spray or dust for control of caterpillars on cabbage and other cole crops.

In addition, it may be used to control worms on tomatoes.

Bacillus thuringiensis is sold under many trade names such as Biotrol, Dipel and Thuricide. It is nontoxic to warm-blooded animals, including man.

It is also nontoxic to most predator and parasitic insects, bees, and insect pests other than caterpillars. Therefore, if such insects as aphids, beetles or leafhoppers are a pest problem, another insecticide may be necessary.

Insect control suggestions are included in University of Illinois Circular 900, "Insect Pest Management Guide, Home Yard and Garden."

This publication is available free of charge from the county Extension adviser's office or the Publication Office, 123 Mumford Hall, University of Illinois, Urbana 61801.

The all-America rated Sugar Snap pea has received high ratings in recent press

SPEED UP GARDEN

According to the calendar, it's time to plant all of the warm-season crops. But until the soil dries and warms up, little or no growth will occur.

You can overcome some of the planting and growth delay by using extra effort and good garden sense.

For example, don't work soil when it's excessively wet or the destruction of soil structure will retard growth.

You can speed up the drying process by scratching the surface with a rake, tiller, or disk and then waiting a day or two to work it deeper.

Insure adequate soil fertility by incorporating fertilizer or compost during the soil preparation. When setting plants, add a soluble fertilizer to the water used for watering. This should be high in phosphorus for good root growth.

Use healthy, vigorous plants. Diseased, spindly, yellow plants will take time to recover, whereas good plants should begin to grow immediately.

Oversized tomato plants seldom have an advantage over stocky, vigorous young plants. If leggy tomato plants are used, set them more of less horizontal so that rooting will develop along the stem.

Providing temporary shade will help some transplants overcome transplant shock on hot, sunny days. This can be shingles, stakes, lath, or other shade devices placed on the south side of the plant. Remove in three or four days when the plants are established.

If the weather continues to be cold, plastic or glass covers can be used for protection and heat accumulation. Plastic tents could be built to simulate greenhouse conditions. But be prepared to provide ventilation on a hot day.

Warm soil is extremely important to crops such as peppers, eggplant, tomato, cucumber and melons. The use of plastic mulches to increase soil temperatures should improve their early growth.

Both clear and black plastic can be used to warm soil around plants. Clear plastic allows for greater soil warm-up, but allows weeds to grow and cause physical problems. Black plastic will warm soils too, and will smother weeds.

Conversely, avoid applying organic mulches such as straw to these warm season crops until the soil is warm and growth is vigorous.

Mother Nature may solve all the late-season problems by giving us some warm, dry weather. But until this happens, try the above suggestions for speeding up the garden.

Construction crime prevention award

The Southern Illinois Builders Association has announced the first recipient of a reward in its crime prevention program for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person responsible for a job site crime.

An employee of Swarsea Concrete in East St. Louis, is the recipient of an undisclosed cash reward for his testimony as a witness to an occurrence last fall.

SIBA offers up to $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of a person or persons responsible for acts of theft, vandalism or violence on job sites, offices, or equipment yards of their members.

The program has been in existence since 1975. The incident occurred at a construction project in O'Fallon.

The witness arrived at the job site early in the morning and noticed a commotion near a pickup truck. Three men were striking a fourth man and, when the witness yelled at them, the three jumped into the truck and drove off.

The witness wrote down the license number of the truck and this, along with his testimony and identification of the driver, led to the man's arrest and conviction.

The victim, Jeffrey Minor, is a truck driver for the Building Products Corp. of Belleville and a member of Teamsters Local 50. He said the three men approached him while he was unloading sand and cement at the site.

This is the first award to a recipient in the SIBA reward program. The SIBA felt that his courage in both attempting to break up the job site dispute and in providing testimony leading to eventual conviction deserved a "substantial cash reward."

Area thinclads preparing for state meet

Special to the Press-Record
BLOOMINGTON — Will this be the year a school other than East St. Louis (Sr.) wins the Class AA team crown? What effect will the reinstatement of the 880-yard relay (absent the past two meets) have on the outcome of the race for the team title in both classes? How many records will fall in the final Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Boys Track and Field Meet series conducted on a non-metric basis? How many of the 10 returning champions will defend their crowns? Those questions will be answered when athletes from 625 downstate, suburban and non-Chicago Public League schools compete at the district level in the 85th — but fifth two-class Boys State Track and Field Meet series the weekend of May 18-19. Trojans seventh at Relays; set records in two events

CENTRALIA — Madison Hugh's boys track was the best of the little guys here Saturday in the running of the Orphan Relays. But it was only good enough for seventh place among the big boys.

East St. Louis, as expected, waltzed away with the team championship with a whopping 148 points. Alton tied with Dectur MacArthur for second, Belleville East was fourth, and Belleville West was fifth. Mt. Vernon finished in sixth with 27, Madison had 24.

Harrisburg and Lebanon tied for eighth place with 12 points each. Carbondale had 10, Centralia nine, Metropolis 6, Wood-lawn 3 and Salem 2.

Madison's 440 yard relay team showed its strength to the larger schools. The Trojan sprinters easily beat East St. Louis first in the event with time of 43.7 seconds, compared to the Flyers' 44.3.

Madison's 880 relay team almost beat the Flyers, but not quite. East St. Louis finished one-tenth of a second ahead of the Trojans with a 1:31.3. Alton took third with a time of 1:32.3.

"Even though we didn't win it (the 880), I was pleased," said Madison coach Charles Steptoe. "Anytime you can beat East St. Louis in a sprinting event and finish a tenth behind them in another, you're not doing too badly."

The times recorded by Madison in both the 440 and 880 relays by Madison were school records. Madison's time of 43.8 in the 440 race broke the mark of 43.8 set in the 1960's. The time of 1:31.4

in the 880 broke the mark of 1:32.3 set in 1970. Members of the 880 relay team were James Heard, Carlyn Jackson, Marcus White and Earnest Davenport. But those two races were the only events in which Madison came close to a first place medal. The Trojans' mile relay team finished fifth at 3:34.0.

Madison's Norman Miller, Mike Ellis and Sylvester Collins combined for a fourth place in the 330 yard hurdle shuttle. Their combined time was 2:08.1. The breakdown was: Collins 40.6, Ellis 42.3, and Miller 43.9. East St. Louis won the event in a time of 2:04.7. Alton was second at 2:05.0 and Belleville West was third in a time of 2:07.9. Belleville East claimed fifth in a time of 2:11.5.

Madison's usual other strength, the jumping events, did not materialize. Troy Butler, who is a normal resident in first place in both the long jump and triple jump, did not make the trip to Centralia because of illness.

"We didn't have Troy and that hurt," said Steptoe. "If he'd been there, I'm sure we would have gotten some points out of the long jump and triple jump. He's jumped better than both winning distances this season already."

In that 440 yard relay, Madison jumped out to the early lead and was never headed. White took the early lead, Collins and Davenport added to it, and Davenport turned on the after-burners and blazed away from the field.

sites. A total of 259 schools will compete in the Class AA series for schools with enrollments of 751 or more at 14 district sites. Ten of the 16 Class A districts will be conducted Friday night (May 18), while nine of the Class AA districts will be conducted Friday night.

A year ago, a total of 628 schools outside the Chicago Public League competed in the series, of which 370 were in Class A and 258 were in Class AA, along with the 64 schools in the Chicago Public League.

The Flyers of East St. Louis (Sr.) have won every Class AA team title since the two-class concept was introduced in 1975. East St. Louis (Sr.) won the 1975 crown with 29 points and followed in 1976 with 30. The Flyers tied with Chicago His. (Bloom) at 46 points in 1977 and won the title outright in 1978 with 37 points. Coach Jimmy Lewis' team scored a 13-point decision over 20 runners-up Deerfield and Chicago (Brother Rice) last spring. East St. Louis (Sr.) is favored again in early-season ratings.

Only three of the Flyers' individual qualifiers for the finals in last year's meet returned, but Lewis' overall program at the school is expected to take up the slack. The returnees include Junior Vincent Allen, who

North can't overcome Alton pitching, 2-1

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record

ALTON — When a baseball coach shows some daring, he leaves himself open to criticism. If the chance he takes fails, he faces the second guessers.

Bob Stegemeier, Granite City North's coach, took a chance Saturday in a game against the Alton Redbirds, and it failed. North went on to lose the game 2-1 and the second-guessers had a chance to go to work.

The circumstances were this: North was behind, 2-0 in the fifth. After struggling along in the game prior to this point, the Steelers finally had something going.

After a lead-off infield out, the next four North batters reached base. The first of those four, Larry Burns, on because of Alton's third baseman's error, scored when Bob Batey singled up the middle. Dennis Page and Brian Patterson, who had walked prior to Batey's hit, moved to second and third. Jeff Stamper followed, and Stegemeier decided to try something unexpected. He signaled to Stamper for the bunt. He was trying to squeeze the tying run home from third.

The bunt reached Alton pitcher Brad Fields quickly, too quickly, because Fields flipped the ball to catcher Jay Sabo, who had it waiting three feet before Page reached the plate.

The Steelers' razzle-dazzle backfired. But Stegemeier, when asked to reflect on the decision, didn't sound at all regretful.

"We were trying to squeeze him in because Stamper tends to stand in better when he's bunting. He was hit by a pitch earlier," Stegemeier said. "And that's just the way we are. We're gonna gamble. If I had to do it over again I'd do it the same way. I'm not going to second-guess myself."

Instead of a tie with one out, the Steelers had the bases loaded with two outs. Hopes for a big inning ended when North's Tom Greco popped out to the catcher. Stegemeier's hit was only the second in the game at that point for the Steelers. The run it scored was also the first, and it turned out to be the only one for North.

Fields was sharp, but luck played its part. The Steelers were hitting the ball, but not finding the gaps.

"We hit line drives," Stegemeier said, "but they were caught. I was pleased with our hitting. But there's not much you can do when you hit the ball right at someone."

The Redbirds were having problems of their own at the plate. Through four innings, Alton had only one hit, but had scored two runs.

The Redbirds were helped by an error and three runners who reached after they were hit by Steeler pitches.

In the second inning, Alton took the lead without the benefit of a hit. Steve

Champion hopes his team isn't 'all-wet'

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — The cold and rainy weather experienced this spring has been a topic of conversation, a hindrance to day-to-day activities, or just a pain in the neck to most people.

But for Babe Champion and his Granite City North baseball Warriors it has meant all these things and more.

With just a week before area baseball teams have to decide who among their rosters will play in the post season tournaments, the Warriors have been hounded by rainout after rainout.

Last week, South saw four of its scheduled games rained out. And at a period when the Warriors were showing signs of living up to a potential that Champion sees as huge, the timing couldn't have been worse.

Champion is quick to point out that all area teams have had to live with the same conditions. But the Warriors' problems illustrate what unplanned time off can mean.

The difficulty is two part. With fewer games, Champion said his players who have been having problems, or who have yet to prove themselves, aren't given the opportunity in game situations.

"The marginal players are the ones who are going to be hurt," Champion said. "We have about seven pitchers who have all done a good job for us before this week, but with the rainouts, they didn't get a chance to work. Now we just have to go with our best."

"We have to get down to 18 next week for regionals. We usually have a few surprises among those 18, but if there are no games then we just have a guessing game on our backs."

Besides not having a chance to make that final evaluation of his talent, Champion is also faced with the possibility that the lay-off could mean that his peaking team will be set back.

"I think we're just starting to blossom," Champion said. "No one on this team realizes just how we could be. Now I just hope that our hot bats don't cool off, but we feel optimistic."

The Warriors haven't played a game in over a week now, something that may or may not have a negative effect.

Some clubs bounce back quicker than others," Champion said. We haven't touched the surface of our potential. We need to be more aggressive in spots, but this team has a chance to be one of the best that we've ever had."

Champion looks to the bright side though. "Sometimes a couple of days off does a team good. It can get to be a pretty long season," he said.

Davenport picks ISU

BLOOMINGTON — Defending state quarter-mile champion Earnest Davenport of Madison High School has signed a national letter of intent to enroll at Illinois State University.

"I honestly feel he is the best 200 and 400 meter high school runner in the state, bar none," Coach John Coughlan of Illinois State said.

Davenport has the credentials to prove it. He won the 440-yard dash at the Illinois High School Championships last spring with a time of 48.4 seconds, and posted one of the state's better 220 times of 21.9. His best 400 time so far this spring is 49 seconds.

"He has no indoor track and has just been outside a couple of weeks," Coughlan points out. "With the big meets coming up and better weather, I expect he could get into the 47's."

Schrader leads all the way for Tri-City Speedway victory

By JEFF LANES of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Kenny Schrader of Ballwin, Mo., driving the Stadium Motors No. 14 Chevy Sprinter out of Evansville, Ind., had it all together when he came to the one-half mile dirt track Saturday night winning his heat, trophy dash, and feature. He took home a big share of the $6,000 purse at Tri-City Speedway.

Schrader started on the front row pole with Terry Doss on the outside. He took the lead on the first turn and was never headed of the 20-lap race.

Doss, an ex-supermodified champion out of Tulsa, Okla., making only his third start, within passing distance of Schrader. But Schrader was the master of the speedway with the experience of running there.

On the 17th lap, Doss' right front suspension let go in the No. 2 turn and did a slow spin but was not touched by the other hard-charging sprinters, knocking him out of the race. On the restart it was Chet Johnson of Denison, Ill., running well for the No. 2 spot for the rest of the race. Johnson was followed by Jerry Wiggs of Marion, Ill.

It was Schrader's second win out of three features for the season.

Bill Myers won his third feature in a row (also winning his heat race and trophy dash) for a clean sweep driving his 1978 Camaro sponsored by local merchant Bob Smart who operates Burger King in Granite City.

Starting on the front row, Myers was never headed of the 20-lap late model feature. Hard-charging Mike Wallace of Arnold, Mo., was looking good until he had steering problems. He hit the inside track barrier forcing him out of the race but just could not catch the low flying hard driver Myers.

Gary Wilson of Bowling Green, Mo., also won his heat race and the 15-lap feature on the half mile track. He was pushed very hard by Roy Tobias of Elsberry, Mo. Seventeen cars was on hand.

Promoter Gil Rimel announced that next Saturday night will feature a special Mother's Day race of late models and sportsman cars with $750 to the winner of the 20-lap late model feature.

South fourth at meet; Steelers place fifth

SPRINGFIELD — The Granite City South boys' track team finished fourth here Friday in the annual Springfield Southeast Invitational. Crosstown rival Granite City North was fifth.

Danville ran away with the overall team championship with a total of 88 points. Urbana was second with 75, Southeast third with 42.

South had 39 points, North 20. Quincy was last with 17 points.

Dave Houston of South was the winner of the mile run with his time of 4:27.1. Bruce DeTuntz of North won the two mile in a time of 10:21.5. South's Foster was the winner in the 330 yard low hurdles in a time of 41.2 seconds.

Other places won by Granite City athletes were: Bill Portell of North fifth in the 440 yard run, Dave Taylor of South fifth in the mile, Tim Rozyski of North fifth in the 120 yard hurdles, South's 440 relay team fourth (North's fifth), Mark Siebert of South third in the shot put, Konzen of South fourth in the discus (Grove of South fourth), South's Dave Mahaffey second in the long jump, Rich Boatman of North fourth in the high jump (Davis of North fifth) and John Kefalas of North second in the pole vault.

Steve Adams of South was third and Mike Robinson of North was fifth in the pole vault.

South netters waltz

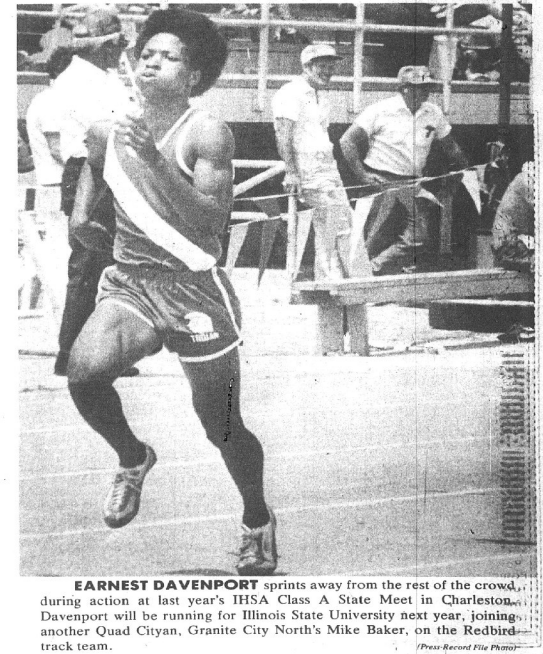

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City South boys' tennis team raised its record to 8-0 here Saturday with a 9-0 drubbing of Bethalto.

South won all six singles matches and three doubles. The Warriors did not lose a set all day.

It simply wasn't the right day for either Granite City high school tennis team Thursday. Both GC North and South lost road decisions.

Granite City South lost its second match of the season to Cahokia, this time by a count of 5-2. In Roxana Granite North won all the doubles matches, but fell in every singles match to drop a 3-2 decision to the host Shells.

George Sykes was the only singles winner against Cahokia for South's Warriors. He beat Jim Hook 6-4, 6-1.

EARNEST DAVENPORT sprints away from the rest of the crowd, during action at last year's IHSA Class A State Meet in Charleston. Davenport will be running for Illinois State University next year, joining another Quad Cityan, Granite City North's Mike Baker, on the Redbird track team.

Rowden qualifies for state meet

DOWNER'S GROVE — Granite City's Pam Rowden, representing Granite City North, qualified for the state gymnastics meet here Saturday at the Downer's Grove Sectional meet.

Rowden, a 14-year old freshman, placed fourth in the floor exercises with an 8.7, sixth on the parallel bars with an 8.5 and seventh overall. A fall in the beam contact cost her a third place overall finish. She will compete this Friday and Saturday at the state meet in Palatine. She was the only freshman to qualify from the Downer's Grove Sectional meet.

Even though Granite City North no longer has a gymnastics team, she will be considered a representative of North at the state meet.

Jateff to lead ISU gridders

ELDHOMINGTON — Illinois State University's football squad has concluded its spring test with passing grades.

Head coach Charlie Cowdrey said he was pleased with last Saturday's final scrimmage, and remarked that the team had made great strides throughout the spring.

"I think our main objective at the start of spring practice was to bolster our defensive line, and it was one area that greatly improved," Cowdrey commented. "Our linebackers also developed into a strong unit."

The mainstays in the Redbirds' 5-2 defense at linebacker are juniors Vic Friederich of Metamora, Mike Sinchak of Joliet (Central) and Bruce Jateff of Granite City (North). Friederich led ISU in tackles last fall, while Sinchak and Jateff split time at the other linebacking spot because both were injured at times.

With the team meeting for the last time this week until fall practice, it is now time for Cowdrey's coaching staff to review the ISU strengths and weaknesses, plus study films of the opponents to be faced next fall.

"I'm really looking forward to starting practice again in the fall, and the players are optimistic, also," Cowdrey concluded.

SIEA award to P-R Sports

CARBONDALE — The Press-Record Sports section received a second-place award here Friday from the Southern Illinois Editorial Association at presentations made here at Southern Illinois University.

The Press-Record's sister paper, the Collinsville Herald, received a third place for best sports coverage in 1978. The Tazewell Times, near Peoria, received the first-place award in sports coverage.

Dudley lands T-Town cager

EDWARDSVILLE — A two-time choice by the Associated Press for Illinois all-state basketball honors, Theodore James Smith of Teutopolis High School, has signed a letter of intent to play college basketball at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Smith, as a 6-6 guard, ranked an average of 18 points his sophomore year, 21.5 his junior year, and 18.9 in the season just completed. From the free throw line those three years, he hit at a 76 percent clip.

A shortstop who lettered all four years in high school, Smith was named to the Illinois all-state team in the 1977-78 season. With Tony Pugh, the Cougars' ace shortstop this year and last, due to graduate this year, Smith could be a most welcome addition to the Cougar baseballers, too.

Smith is the only Teutopolis High School athlete to be named to all-state laurels in both basketball and baseball, and he was picked by the AP for all-state basketball honors both his junior and senior years.

Baseball: The non-violent sport?

ALTON — Baseball. It's known as one of the non-contact sports. You know, those that are "safe" to play. Oh, sure, there's a hard ball zooming in on a helpless batter at speeds at around 100 miles per hour. There are a few collisions here and there. But nothing serious, right? Well...maybe. Saturday at

Alton there was a typical baseball game. You know, home team goes out it front but has to rely on some luck and a break here or there to hold on for the victory. But there were a few alterations. Granite City North runner was called safe. There was a play at the plate in which an Alton Redbird runner was tagged out. There was a play at the plate in which a Granite City North runner was called safe. There were base runners on for North in the final inning, but the tying one couldn't make it to home plate in time. North hit the ball everywhere...everywhere there was an Alton player standing waiting to catch it, that is.

The 2-1 loss was only North's fourth of the year against 11 wins. But it was hard to swallow. Alton is seeded fourth in next week's IHSA Class AA Regional meet. North is third. But Alton wanted to prove the seedings wrong. But nothing was proved to North coach Bob Stegemeier.

Like he says, "What can you do when you hit it right at them the whole game?" Lose, usually, coach.

Gymnast is looking to Moscow

Special to the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — Most of the times that fans see their athletic stars performing either in person or on television, they have very little knowledge of the many long and painful hours put in by their favorites preparing for those events.

Petite Judy Johnson, an elite grade gymnast of Olympic stature, is such an athlete. Last fall in Texas during a meet, she injured herself. Full of pluck and determination, the Alton native and sophomore at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville disregarded a badly torn left ankle ligament and gamely finished her event. She finished a good 22nd in a field of 38 competitors despite the mishap. Now, months later and many hundreds of lonely, monotonous and extremely painful hours later, Johnson is back in the gymnastic wars.

Just last week, at Houston, Tex., she finished seventh in the all-around American Amateur Union's Elite national championships. Her best scores came in the uneven bars competition, where her beautiful flowing routine with two somersaults and a pair of free hip stands earned her a place in the finals and, eventually, a fourth-place medal.

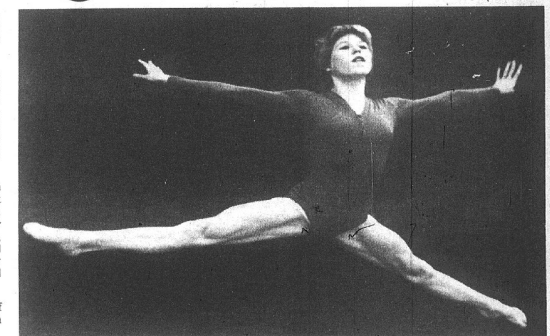

Johnson's performance at Houston also earned her a berth in the United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF), May 17-19 at Dayton, Ohio. The results in Ohio will determine who will represent the U.S. in international competition and also a chance to take part in the World Games.

According to Larry Moehn, a physical education instructor at SIUE and John's coach, "She definitely has a chance of landing a berth on the U.S. Olympic team which will participate in Moscow next summer."

He continued, "She is a top-ranked elite gymnast and has been on the U.S. AAU International team for the past two years. In 1976, she was a four-time gold medalist at the AAU Junior Olympics for advanced gymnasts."

Johnson is a member of the Alton Mid-Illinois Jets, a gymnastic club.

SIEUE'S JUDY JOHNSON

GC native is super power-lifter

By AL BARNES for the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — He's so quiet and self-effacing, one would never know he's around.

The quiet one, Rich Wickham, is a 25-year-old sophomore at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He lets his muscles speak for him, much like Teddy Roosevelt, who said, "Carry a big stick and speak softly."

Wickham is from Granite City. During a four-year enlistment in the U.S. Air Force in Germany, young Wickham was introduced to and fell in love with the fairly new sport of power-lifting.

Power lifting, if at all known to most American sports lovers, is often confused with weight lifting, a highly regarded and well-known international athletic endeavor. Weight lifting is dominated largely by Russia, and the East European block countries. This state of affairs has resulted in the world's Olympic events committee taking a rather dim view of elevating power lifting to Olympic Games status. According to Halsey Miller, professor of earth sciences, geography and planning at SIUE and young Wickham's coach, "Rick's outstanding performances in the collegiate nationals held at Pensacola Junior College in Florida, March 23 and 24, qualified him for a master's ratig as established by the National A.A.U. Powerlifting Committee. At the rate he's progressing, it is only a matter of time until he'll reach the elite class."

Young Wickham finished second this year in Florida, just a year ago, he came in 15th. Wickham was asked when he hopes to make the elite ranking. Without batting an eye, the young athlete and his coach said in unison: "In August of this year."

At Pensacola, Wickham lifted 600 pounds, squat; 405 pounds, bench press; and 600 pounds, dead lift. The total of 1,605 pounds qualified him for the master's rating. Says Miller: "There are very few masters in the United States, and for one to make the elite class is one of the world's outstanding athletic achievements."

Wickham is not too evident to the casual observer, weighs only 200 pounds and stands five-feet, nine inches tall.

In fact, he didn't do too much in sports at his school, Granite City South. He played one year as guard on the Warriors' football team and gave it up. His senior year (1970), he wrestled on the high school team at 155 pounds.

In addition to the help given him by Prof. Miller, young Wickham has been supported 100 percent by the Spartan Power Lifting Club in Granite City which is underwritten by the Spartan Spa. "I have high hopes that Rick will become a world champion," Miller said. "He has the potential—that's for sure. I'll say this, Vincent Anello (of Ohio) look out." Anello is the current world champion.

Luber signs at Rockhurst

HIGHLAND — Former St. Paul-Highland basketball stars Dennis Luber and Randy Moss have announced their college choices for next fall.

Luber, the St. Louis area's leading scorer the past two seasons, will attend Rockhurst College in Kansas City and Moss has opted for Westminster College in Fulton, Mo.

Luber was one of the most sought-after high school basketball players around. He was recruited by such college powers as St. Louis University, Illinois and Quincy College.

Moss and Luber will face each other in their first college games next season. Westminster faces Rockhurst in the first round of the Rockhurst Tournament in November. Moss and Luber were members of the St. Paul team that was eliminated by Madison in this season's IHSA Class A Sectional at Vandalia.

Madison splits

MADISON — The Madison Trojans raised their record to 3-9 here Saturday when they split a doubleheader with Hillsboro. Madison lost the first game 7-2 but came back to win the second 3-2.

In the first game, Trojan pitcher Ken Briggs tripled and scored in the sixth inning. In the second game, Briggs doubled and scored in the fifth inning.

and some injuries. I'm not sure if we're the best team in the state anymore, but with some momentum, we can be."

Madison "found itself" Thursday in walloping visiting Columbia to the tune of 9-49.

Madison—as usual—used its strength in the sprinting events, but this time also got good performances out of its distance runners.

Bob Ford, who had lined out to Alton's centerfield earlier in the game, whistled a shot to the Redbird in the stop, who grabbed it easily for the game-end.

"We had a lot of opportunities," Stegmeier said. "We're capable of hitting Murray's better pitches."

Both Granite City South and North will be entered. Other schools will be: Alton, Belleville Althoff, East and West, Bethalto, Cahokia, Collinsville, East St. Louis, Lincoln, East St. Louis Sr., Edwardsville, Highland Sr., Chester, Columbia, Dupo, Freeburg, Greenville, Highland St. Paul, Lebanon, Marissa, Mounds-Meridian, Nashville, Okawville, Pinkneyville, Red Bud, Trenton, Waterloo Gibault and Waterloo Senior.

The Class AA District for this area will be held Friday (May 11) at Belleville East.

It was one of only three hits for the Redbirds in the game, but Stegmeier wasn't pleased with North's pitching. When he said Alton just hit the ball better than the Redbirds did, it may have been with a touch of sarcasm.

Stegmeier lifted Doty, probably North's most consistent pitcher of the season, after four innings. At the time, Doty had given up only one hit.

Considering the way things had gone for the Steelers up to that point, the frustration of the final out was almost inevitable.

State investigation of Metro Sanitary District justified

State Rep. Sam Wolf and State Sen. Sam Vadalabene are right in asking Illinois Auditor General Robert Cray to investigate the Metro-East Sanitary District, successor to the East Side Levee and Sanitary District.

Because of a long delay by the Illinois Supreme Court in deciding the constitutionality of the law creating the new district and apportioning the board majority on the basis of assessed valuation, the Madison County portion of the district — the Quad-City area — has never achieved effective control. The "five-member board" of local residents and three from St. Clair County.

The investigation is needed, the three Quad-City area board members say, because the administrator — with the backing of the three St. Clair County men — has continued many of the practices of the former Levee District. Hiring occurs without adequate regard to need, to the district's financial ability, or to the employees' willingness to appear and to perform, it is contended.

State and federal funds are involved, as well as Quad-City area property taxes. An investigation by the auditor general is imperative and could guide the way to reforms.

Rep. Wolf's legislation introduced Friday to divide the Sanitary District along the Madison-St. Clair county line recalls a similar attempt in 1972. Another bill introduced in 1977 by the House and Senate and was signed into law by then Governor Richard Ogilvie but the Illinois Supreme Court intervened. Perhaps the new bill can avoid the pitfalls cited by the high court, but this is not certain. The court always seems to find one reason or another to avoid making the district accountable to taxpayers and voters.

The concept of dividing the district invariably draws strong opposition, especially from outside the area that is paying through the nose for highly questionable services and a low level of efficiency.

Certainly, the two successor districts would need to cooperate on drainage matters, perhaps with the help of the State Waterways Division. But some way must be found to end the waste of the hard-earned dollars of Quad-City families and businesses.

News notes

Two hundred welfare rights advocates demanded a seven percent hike in cost-of-living payments to public aid recipients Thursday but Gov. James R. Thompson avoided promising an increase. Some of the crowd at his office cursed and pushed, but eventually listed and urged them to tell legislators to cut spending in other areas.

Gen Robert E. Huyser, U.S. European Command deputy commander, will become commander of the Military Airlift Command, based at Scott near Belleville, this summer.

A bill to let the public more information on lobbyists' spending was rejected 7-4 Friday by the Illinois Senate Executive Committee.

The Order of the Arrow of the Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council will sponsor a benefit car wash Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Bob's Shell station, 2701 Pontoon Road at Sara.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has decided to relax proposed air quality standards for new coal-fired electric power plants.

U.S. unemployment rose from 5.7 percent in April and employment dropped 670,000 to 98,200,000.

State's Attorney Nicholas Byron has told Casper Nighossian, Madison city attorney, and Don Smith, adviser to the Madison County Board, that they must give up those posts or not continue as assistant state's attorneys.

ATTEMPTED RAPE

A 22-year-old Granite City woman told Madison police 9:15 p.m. Friday that she had been hunking and a man who offered her a ride stopped near Bissell and Short streets in Venice where she attempted to rape her. She said she fell out of his car, a white Thunderbird with a red interior, and screamed. He then drove away.

MARIJUANA ARRESTS

William P. Kelly, 17, of 3205 Wayne Ave., and Glen M. Valle, 17, Edwardsville, were charged with possession of cannabis after police alleged seeing them smoking a marijuana pipe in a car and stopped the car at Namekook Road and Pershing Boulevard at 3:20 p.m. Saturday. He was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where he was treated for pain to the left side of his ribs and was admitted. He was issued a ticket alleging driving too fast for conditions.

Madison seeking entrance to Collinsville vocational school

The Madison Board of Education decided Thursday night to apply for admission to the Collinsville Area Vocational Center.

If the Madison district is accepted, students will be able to receive additional training in industrial and vocational arts at the center in Collinsville. The center is on the Greenwood Campus of Collinsville High School.

"This is the closest vocational school contiguous with our boundaries and would present a good opportunity for our students, close to their homes," Superintendent of Schools John Palchek said.

He noted Madison has applied in the past, but has been rejected by the Collinsville district because Collinsville was overcrowded. "We understand they have some room now and have accepted at least one other school district," the superintendent explained.

Approval was given for Madison High School to hold its second annual May Day celebration Thursday, May 17, in the school gymnasium.

Student creations from industrial arts, art classes and home economics projects will be on display to the public from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Pontoon Lions withdraw support of Youth office

The Lions Club of Pontoon Beach has withdrawn its $3,000 pledge to the Pontoon Beach-Namekook area office of Coordinated Youth Services for the 1979-80 fiscal year, due to the forced resignation of the office director, Donald D. Patrick, by the Pontoon Beach Village Board.

In a letter to C.A. "Bud" MacMillan, area director of Coordinated Youth Services, it was disclosed that the membership of the club voted to withdraw the pledge.

Patrick was forced to resign by the new village board after unsuccessfully challenging Paul Bennett for the village board presidency in the April village election.

Since the village donates space for the Pontoon Beach office, a demand by the new board for Patrick's removal led to his resignation.

In County Board President, Larry J. McKee, club president, said that due to Patrick's resignation, "we feel the area office is under the complete control of the local Pontoon Beach Village Board and not the agency of Coordinated Youth Services."

"Since this is the case, the Lions Club of Pontoon Beach feels that it is only appropriate that the village of Pontoon Beach be responsible for funding its budget," the letter continues.

It says that the Lions members against the agency when Pontoon Beach Village Board members, in a childish act of revenge, forced his resignation.

McKee concluded the letter by saying the club has a valuable relationship with the Coordinated Youth Services office in the village and they worked together on several projects to aid the needy in the area.

"The Lions club of Pontoon Beach feels that you will be losing a valuable community asset with the departure of Patrick," McKee summarized.

Crawford was heading north on Fourth Street when the truck was heading south. The truck's front end struck Crawford's car.

Crawford was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, but is not believed to have been hurt seriously, according to a police spokesman.

Scouting Day for Blair, Louis Baer and Harris Schools was approved for Sept. 20, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The board was told. The event is to be at Venice Community Center Thursday, May 24, at noon.

The high school graduation for May 25 at 7:30 p.m. and the junior high recognition awards program for May 24 at 9:30 a.m.

The recent North Central accreditation report was given to board members and discussed. "We felt it was a very good evaluation and we are very happy with it," Palchek said.

"Some suggestions on weaknesses will be considered carefully, but in summary it said Madison is a good school," Palchek concluded.

Mrs. Beulah Williams, security guard, asked to be reassigned from full time to part-time and Charlene Burns agreed to change from part time to full time, so the board approved them changing hours.

Accepted with regrets was a letter from Mrs. Armenta Griggs, head cook at Blair School, announcing that she is retiring due to illness, effective at the end of this school year.

Palchek reported that everything seems to be on schedule for the anticipated opening of the new Madison Middle School at the beginning of the school year in August.

The board approved the calendar for next school year, Monday, Aug. 27, will be district institute and classes will begin with a half day Aug. 28. Last day of school is June 6, including five snow days. Classes could end May 30, if no snow days are used.

Earl McClamb, principal of the junior high school, was given permission to start seventh and eighth grade girls' basketball programs for the next school year at the new middle school.

Gasoline crunch causing violence at stations in West

No one has an inherent right to a natural resource that has been depleted. But the present "energy policy" of the federal government leaves much to be desired. Californians who waited in long lines for gasoline during the weekend used up a lot of fuel in the process. There was violence at some service stations, and some motorists waited in lines overnight.

Mobility through the use of automobiles is a highly prized aspect of daily life here and elsewhere in America, and it isn't really a luxury. There isn't much of an alternative for people needing to go to work, school or stores, so the continuing gasoline price rise doesn't limit usage; fuel consumption remains high despite the cost, because it is needed and consumers are willing to sacrifice other portions of their budget.

Federal proposals for rationing gasoline use to a few gallons a week are unrealistic and frightening, and the easy solution of "ride the bus instead" isn't possible for many.

Not only is the Bi-State Transit System short of diesel fuel, but it has a limited number of vehicles. Acting Executive Director John Brawley says it can do little to handle more riders unless employers stagger work hours, utilizing at mid-day buses that already are at maximum rush-hour capacity.

Even if more buses are acquired, Bi-State's maintenance facilities cannot cope with greatly increased rush-hour service, Brawley adds. And unless Uncle Sam Approves a request for $75 million to improve the bus garages, 1,000 buses currently in operation may become inoperable in the near future, Bi-State says.

Such a negative outlook indicates that fuel forecasts of a "long, hot summer" may prove to be accurate. But this isn't acceptable, and perhaps not inevitable. Government leaders, together to producers and retailers, and citizen need to give the subject high priority in their thinking and planning this spring.

Committeeman has right to speak

To the Editor:

It seems I might have ruffled a few feathers when the Namekook precinct committeeman had a meeting recently and I brought up the subject of Louis Whitsell not attending County Board meetings.

I use by the May 3 Press-Record that another meeting was called — without notifying me. It appears that Frank Mebel didn't like what was said about Mr. Whitsell, even though he doesn't even live in his County Board district.

He called the meeting with the sole purpose of blasting me for telling the truth. I was brought in to prohibit precinct committeemen from saying they are elected to any position, how are they going to stop it?

I'll say anything that I want to say for the good of the public.

For an unpaid job, I can sure get into hot water. I guess some people would have a stroke if I go high in politics.

One of the duties of secretary is to notify all committeemen meetings from saying they are elected to media, both of which I do.

As for trying to prohibit precinct committeemen from saying they are elected to any position, how can they stop it? I'll say anything that I want to say for the good of the public.

Believe there is still such a thing as free speech.

HELEN M. HAWKINS

Those ailing deserve compassion

To the Editor:

I am referring to the last paragraph of the article that appeared in Thursday's issue of the Press-Record pertaining to the health impression that was printed by someone with no medical knowledge of John Maeras.

I read the article and I stopped to ask myself, how can anyone be so cruel and doubtful to publish such about a man's medical problems, especially cancerous tumors which today most of us fear and never know that tomorrow it could strike us.

How much torture must a human being take from the news and cruel public were forced to live with in our everyday world? And since when do we have the press printing records to your paper to make sure that the truth is printed about our physical condition because, God help us, tomorrow I could be a victim.

I have lost four members of my family from cancer and I can truthfully say I have lost respect for you and your paper.

When you see a sick dog laying in the street, do you walk up and kick him? What has happened to our human compassion?

MILDRED B. PROSSER
1725 Fifth St., Madison
(Editor's note: The Press-Record at no time has voiced any doubt that the former sheriff is ill. We, of course, have deep sympathy for him and all others in ill health.)

Rotary learns about member

Rotarian Clarence Green, program chairman for the Wednesday noon meeting of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club, said, "At the Madison-Venice Rotary one never knows just what the program will be. For today's program I am going to talk about myself and then about senior citizens."

"Last month I reached age 77 and I have been enjoying my retirement for the past 15 years."

"I am happy to say I come from a family of 16 children and 12 of us are still living. I worked on the railroad for 44 years, and retired as a superintendent. During my working years I only missed five days work and that was due to the death of my father. I was late to work only once, but I can't recall why."

"What is a senior citizen? That simply is a matter of opinion," Green said.

"One point I want to make is that when a couple gets up in years they should be well aware of their status in matters of insurance and property. I even have a letter for my wife to mail to my insurance company should I go first, asking that they refund the unused balance of the premium."

"One friend came to me when she lost her husband and not knowing what to do and thinking she was left without money. She did not realize that her husband had a paid up insurance policy in her dresser drawer."

"Passing of a mate is a serious situation and it is important that before the day comes when one is called away, both are well informed."

The M-V Rotary club voted to donate $1,000 for Christmas decorations for downtown Madison.

The group also voted to assist the YMCA and help some Boy Scout from the M-V area to attend summer camp.

Rotarian Wayne Scannell noted that an Arts and Crafts show is being planned on Saturday, Sept. 15. He said it will be a one day show beginning at 9 a.m. and ending with a street dance. The club voted to participate in the Madison Ethnic Days to be scheduled in August.

Zoning hearings set for May 18

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold two on-site public hearings in Quad-City area townships on Friday, May 18.

At 9:15 a.m. May 18, the board will hold a hearing in Division St., near Pontoon Beach, where Fred and Sharon Hartline are requesting to rezone a tract of land near Pontoon Road from R-3 single-family residential zoning to a B-3 highway business district.

Bob Hardy to speak at student-employer dinner

By VALERIE EVENDEN of the Press-Record

Bob Hardy, one of the area's most versatile broadcast newsmen and past potentate of Ainal Shrine Temple, will be guest speaker at the fifth annual "Student-Employer Appreciation Banquet" at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The dinner is given each spring under the auspices of the Granite City School District's Off-Campus Education Program and the Off-Campus Advisory Council.

Its primary purpose is to show appreciation to the various employers throughout the community who hire local high school students under the school program and to recognize the efforts of the student participants, Donald R. Shaffner, Off-Campus coordinator, said.

The banquet will be held in the auditorium at the Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave. More than 400 students and employers attended the event last spring.

At the present time over 300 Granite City high school students participate in the Off-Campus Education Program with 120 employers taking part.

Since joining KMOX Radio in St. Louis in 1969, Hardy has achieved recognition for several documentaries, including "Our Poisoned Children," an in-depth study of lead poisoning in St. Louis, which he wrote and narrated.

He also wrote and narrated, "The Big Life," a report of teenage drug abuse; "American on Trial," a study of the apathy of the American voter; and "Encounter: A Visit to the USSR," based on his 1972 trip to the Soviet Union.

Hardy covered both the Republican and Democratic national conventions in 1972 and 1976, and in 1972 he broke the story of George McGovern's selection of Missouri Senator Tom Eagleton as a running mate, scooping all other media by 15 minutes.

Last September, Hardy hosted a special week of At Your Service broadcasts live from Washington, D.C.

Among his long list of distinguished guests were First Lady Rosalynn Carter, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, Webster, consumer advocate Ralph Nader, Energy Secretary James Schlesinger and Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano.

Active in the Shriners since 1963, Hardy was elected 60th potentate of Ainal Temple in 1976 to head 8,400 Southern Illinois Shriners.

Ainal is one of the 180 temples throughout North America and a leader in child assistance at Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

Born in DuBois, Pa., Hardy was educated at Syracuse, New York, and was a radio instructor at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, and a member of the Armed Forces Radio Network during his service career.

He is a member of Radio-Television News Directors Association and Sigma Delta Chi, society of professional journalists, and is a past president of the St. Louis Press Club.

The Granite City School District's Off-Campus and Extended Classroom program enables the junior and senior year high school student to gain experience in various job opportunities while continuing his high school career.

Some student participants enter the program to learn a variety of job skills in preparation for entering a specific field.

Others taking part discover that the stability and responsibility which go with a job also help them finish their formal education, according to Shaffner.

Statistics show 40 percent of the local high school population continues on to college, but from that 40 percent at least 60 percent never finish, Shaffner said.

The Off-Campus and Extended Classroom program, therefore, provides another alternative to a student in the remaining 60 percent who doesn't want to go to college in the first place, the program coordinator noted.

Those enrolled in the Off-

Campana program are junior and senior students and the basic requirement is that they stay in school while working, Shaffner stressed. And, in the vast majority of cases, it works, he added.

To augment the professional personnel working with the students, an Off-Campus Advisory Council was established, consisting of employers, former student-participants and others interested in the program.

Evaluation of the overall program, both from the student and employer aspect, is among the council's tasks, Shaffner explained.

Don Wolf of Robert Wolf and Associates is the current council president.
